MOVE ON FOR PRICE CEILING ON EVERYTHING

Congress Hears Demands For All-Inclusive Program as Inflation Guard.

HENDERSON ACTION NEAR

Bankhead, O'Mahoney Favor Action But Taft Sees No Need for It.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Demands arose in congress today for an extension of price control to a point where it would constitute a virtual freezing of all prices.

The move came on the heels of a report that the office of price administrator Leon Henderson is readying an all-encompassing program as a guard against inflation.

Sen. Bankhead (D) Ala., strongly supported a full range price limit, contending that such a plan would make a wage ceiling unnecessary.

"Henderson ought to extend price control to the whole field," said Bankhead. "If a ceiling is put on all prices, thus holding down the cost of living, they won't have to put a ceiling on wages."

Sen. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., insisted that a general freezing of prices was the only means of offsetting inflation. He also advocated the extension of price-freezing to wages and profits.

The inflation threat was discredited, however, by Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, who said that the cost of living rose only two per cent in the period from Oct. 15 to Feb. 15.

"That is certainly not unreasonable," said Taft. "It indicates that America may be able to hold prices to an increase of five per cent in a year."

Taft's principal objection to the freezing plan was that he felt all commodities and services should not receive the same treatment. He admitted that the increase in wholesale prices, amounting to about one per cent a month, was a "dangerous factor."

"But farm prices are running up against the ceilings set in the price control act," he continued. "I think statements that we are losing the battle against inflation are alarming the people unnecessarily.

"I have complete confidence in Henderson's ability to control prices. We should not expect in this first year, too rigid an adherance to the existing price level. I think control ought to be extended to different commodities as rapidly as possible, but, of course, all commodities cannot be treated alike."

Sure Was A Busy Sunday For These Filling Stations

NEW YORK—(INS)—It was a busy Sunday for gasoline station proprietors who remained open along the Grand Central Parkway, Queens.

Just before noon, a caravan of 50 cars driven by independent retailers whose stations were closed pulled up to one dealer. They flooded the station's yard.

As each car drove up to a pump, the driver asked for one gallon of gasoline, plus a check-up on tires, oil, water and battery. Then, he handed the attendant a $20 bill.

Afterwards, the caravan moved on to other stations. Participants explained they were "picketing" the stations because they remained open Sundays.

WHAT BURGLARS?

Columbus Police Find 'Burglars' Are Detectives at Work.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Several Columbus police officers had red faces today.

A woman called headquarters and reported that three men were burgling a neighbor's house while a fourth stood outside as a lookout. Three cruisers rushed to the scene, only to find that the "burglars" were city detectives who had gone to the house to question a suspect.

FDR CONFINED

Roosevelt Suffers Head Cold, Remains In Residence.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — President Roosevelt suffered from a slight head cold today and remained in the residential quarters of the White House.

The chief executive planned to receive a few callers at the White House during the day and to lunch with the former ambassador to the Soviet Union, Joseph Davies.

Thousands to Crowd Downtown Streets at 7:30 Tonight As Mansfield Stages Big Parade to Observe Army Day

Mansfield will display its faith in the boys on the firing line and its strength on the home front tonight in an Army Day celebration that is expected to surpass any military observance in the city since the signing of the armistice nearly 24 years ago.

Boys in uniform, civilian defense organizations, patriotic units, parents with sons in the armed forces, bands, and Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts—all of them will march in a parade through the downtown section starting promptly at 7:30 p. m.

More than 2,500 persons will march in the parade and thousands more will watch along the line of march. It will be a dramatic display of a city's faith in what it is doing and can do to help win the war.

Floyd Dent, grand marshal of the parade, said the parade plans have brought an unprecedented response from the city and county. "It's growing beyond anything we had anticipated," he said.

The weatherman has promised an ideal evening for the celebration. It will be warm and there was no rain in sight—at least, early this evening. The new war time will get the parade under way before dark and it should be over before it becomes very dark.

The parade will form at Park avenue west and Bowman street with units taking their places on Sturges avenue, Marion avenue, Blymyer avenue, Wood, Benton and Bowman streets before the 7:30 starting time.

Added to the parade units today was a class of 100 new Mansfield and Richland county citizens who asked that they be permitted to have a part in the observance. They will march in a group, meeting before the parade on Park avenue west beyond Benton street.

Following Park avenue eastward to Central park, the parade will then move around the square to North Main street, north on Main

United Nations Hit Enemy on 3 Battle Fronts

Russians Claim 102 German Ships Shot Down Or Destroyed While British Take High Toll At Ceylon; U. S., Aussies Add To Destruction.

(By Associated Press)

Germany, Italy and Japan suffered one of their costliest week-ends of the air war during the past two days, according to official Allied announcements listing at least 159 Axis planes shot down or destroyed on the ground, with 51 or more others damaged.

The heaviest toll was taken on the Russian front. The Russians said 102 German planes were shot down or blasted to bits on the ground on Saturday alone.

Japan took the second heaviest loss—destruction of at least 27 of the 75 planes she hurled against Ceylon Easter morning. The British, who met the raid with a hard-hitting fighter plane and anti-aircraft defense, said five more Japanese planes probably were destroyed, and 25 were damaged.

Twenty more Japanese planes were destroyed and others were damaged in exchanges of aerial blows with United States and Australian fighting forces. Of these, 11 were destroyed and 14 damaged in United States and Australian raids on Koepang, Dutch Timor, Saturday. Seven were destroyed in Japanese attacks on Darwin and Port Moresby the same day, and two others were shot down near Port Moresby Sunday.

At the British mid-Mediterranean stronghold of Malta six Axis planes were shot down, a seventh probably was destroyed, and six more were damaged during attacks by German and Italian planes Saturday and Sunday.

300 RAF Planes In Widespread Attack

(By Associated Press)

The Germans, gathering their strength for the battle of Russia, were struck last night by one of their largest task forces ever marshaled by the RAF—more than 300 bombers—and it was reported concurrently that British troops, presumably commandos, had assailed their Norwegian flank.

Cologne, a Rhineland center of German war industry, and an aerial engine works near Paris were the principal targets of the RAF night-raiders with their 1,000 tons of explosions and incendiaries.

It was the 105th raid on Cologne.

During an hour and a half in which German anti-aircraft batteries curtained the Paris region with fire and steel, the RAF smashed bombs into the Gnome-Rhone works at Gennevilliers, about three miles from the German-occupied French capital,

Hunt Survivors of Downed Jap Planes

BULLETIN

LONDON — (U.P.) — Japanese naval and air forces were reported by the All-India radio to have carried the war to India for the first time today by attacking shipping off the east coast and bombing two Indian coastal cities.

(By United Press)

COLOMBO, Ceylon — Troops, police and natives, spurred by promise of rewards, searched the jungles and rugged hills of Ceylon today for survivors of 57 Japanese planes, destroyed or damaged out of the carrier-based fleet of 75 warcraft which essayed an Easter Sunday raid and met disaster.

It was asserted officially that 25 were shot down for certain, five more were probably downed and 25 were damaged by British fighter planes. Two more were shot down by anti-aircraft guns

FOUR SOLDIERS HURT IN CRASH NEAR ASHLAND

One Critically Injured When Cars Come Together; County Free of Fatal Mishaps.

For the fourth successive week, Richland county escaped listing on Ohio's week-end traffic death toll, but four soldiers were injured, one critically, when their automobile skidded 170 feet across U. S. Route 42 near the Five Points and crashed head-on into another car at 12:05 a. m. today.

Easter week-end brought relatively few traffic fatalities in Ohio despite almost perfect weather for motoring. At least 13 deaths were caused in traffic accidents throughout the state.

Robert Ryan, jr., of Mesa, Ariz., is in a critical condition at the Ashland Samaritan hospital, believed to be sufferng from a possble skull fracture and brain concussion. Three soldier companions were also in the hospital but were in no immediate danger.

Dale Hammond, Ashland county sheriff, said that the accident occurred when Joseph L. Novak, 21, Cleveland, a soldier, apparently lost control of his automobile which skidded across the highway into the path of another auto operated by Alex Levine, 28, of Cleveland.

Hammond said that Novak's car skidded more than 170 feet in a circular sweep toward the left side of the road and that Levine's car also skidded as he made a futile attempt to avoid the collision.

Riding with Novak were Ryan, Roy L. Henley, 20, of Dayton, and James Thompson, 19, of Akron. Novak, Henley and Thompson, all received severe cuts and bruises about the head, face and shoulders.

Levine suffered a possible frac-

PROBE BLAST

U. S., British Troops Escape Ireland Movie Explosion.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland—(AP)—Three German-type incendiary time bombs exploded harmlessly on Easter in a movie theater which just had been emptied of a Saturday night crowd of United States and British troops, and a search disclosed other explosives hidden in the building.

Besides the explosions, the rattle of gunfire in a running fight between police and members of an armed band marked the anniversary of the so-called Easter rebellion of Irish Republicans who revolted against the British in Dublin 26 years ago and who now, in Northern Ireland, are seeking union with neighboring Eire.

The theater where the bombing occurred had been requisitioned for shows for British and American troops.

SETTLE DISPUTE

Cleveland Aluminum Plant Resumes Normal Operations Today.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—A "slow down" which restricted production by 30 per cent at the Cleveland plant of the Aluminum Company of America two weeks ago, was officially over today as production rose to capacity after a bonus dispute was ironed out by William E. Baldwin, $1-a-year war labor board representative.

The company agreed to increase the number of men in crews up to that which Baldwin said was used in similar smelting operations.

Auto In Which Soldiers Were Injured

In the picture above, Dale Hammond, Ashland county sheriff surveys the rear of the wrecked automobile in which four soldiers were injured, one seriously, early this morning in a collision with another car on U. S. Route 42 near the Dyke elevator, four and a half miles south of Ashland. The soldiers' auto skidded more than 170 feet before crashing with another motorist who attempted to avoid the collision.

Thousands Attend Church, Parade During Afternoon

June Sunshine Helps Mansfield To Observe Easter In Ideal Fashion; Crowd Witnesses Egg Hunt.

Mansfielders heard the traditional story of the resurrection and welcomed spring with a display of bright new clothing yesterday in the city's first wartime Easter observance in 24 years.

In weather that was more like June than early April, thousands went to church in the morning and paraded in their finery in the afternoon. Except for an occasional young man in his service uniform, there was nothing in the city's Easter parade to indicate that the country was at war. The new hats, dresses, and suits were as colorful as ever.

In churches that were filled before services began, pastors told again of the resurrection of Christ as a symbol of everlasting hope for mankind and urged worshippers to turn to the story Christ for consolation and confidence in these trying times.

Cloudy skies and a light shower about mid-afternoon forced paraders to seek cover, but the rain was soon over. The weather crossed up the forecasters who predicted it would rain throughout the day and turn colder in the afternoon.

More than 300 youngsters participated in the annual Easter egg hunt in Middle park while it was estimated that 1,000 watched and found almost as much enjoyment in the hunt as the boys and girls.

Staged by the Volunteers of America, the egg hunt paid cash prizes to winners who received their awards from the five-year-old daughter of Capt. and Mrs. R. L. Gutterman of the Volunteers of America. The little girl was dressed in a rabbit suit.

13 INJURED

Cleveland Trolleys Collide on High Level Bridge.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Pinned beneath the control box of his street car which telescoped another on the Superior-High Level bridge, 70 feet above the Cuyahoga river, Motorman Charles Wendorff, 47, suffered serious injuries today and 12 passengers received cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred when Wendorff was unable to stop his car behind another which had been stopped. The crash came as thousands of West Side Clevelanders and suburbanites were en route to work.

Firemen and Cleveland Railway company, repairmen worked 15 minutes to extricate Wendorff, who suffered crushed legs, fractured ribs, and possible internal injuries.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Edward Curtin, 16, was sentenced today to life imprisonment for murdering Samuel Fadek, gasoline station operator.

STUDY BOARD TO INVEST FUNDS

Councilmen To Be Called Upon To Create Authority For Bond Purchases.

Mansfield's city council will have several important legislative matters to consider at their regular April meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the municipal building, among them the proposed creation of a municipal investment board to supervise the purchase of U. S. governmental securities with "all idle funds."

Leslie K. Wagner, city solicitor, said today that he had drawn up an ordinance which would authorize the establishment of an investment board which would be composed of the mayor, city auditor, city treasurer and city solicitor and that it would be presented to council.

Wagner said he was prompted to draw the ordinance by Councilman Fred Miller and Mayor W. J. Locke. Wagner said the former had asked that council authorize the purchase of $10,000 worth of defense bonds and that Locke had inquired into the procedure necessary for the city to purchase certificates of indebtedness offered for sale by the U. S. treasury for a six-months' period.

The proposed ordinance would empower the investment board to inspect city funds to learn which funds were idle and to prepare a schedule of the uses for which the funds had been planned for the next six months.

Council is also expected to con-

3 DRAFT BOARDS GET CALLS FOR LARGEST QUOTAS

County Orders Expected To Take 250 More Men For Induction This Month.

Two more Richland county draft boards were called on today to furnish their largest monthly quota of soldiers to date in the April selective service call.

Board 3 was asked to supply 85 men on April 24, two days after Board 1 sends 100 men to the army. The Board 1 call was issued Saturday.

Board 2 had an order today for its largest group of men since induction began, but the exact number of men and the date of induction were not available.

The combined calls, expected to take more than 250 men out of Richland county this month, came close on the heels of an announcement by selective service headquarters that the induction rate from the county would be tripled this month. The stepped-up rate is scheduled to continue until next fall, or until the county's new quota for the year is met.

With the county's men this time scheduled for induction on different dates late this month, selective service headquarters indicated that joint induction of selectees from the same county may be discontinued.

With few exceptions, all three Richland county boards in the past have inducted their men on the same day. The new plan, it was pointed out here, may be designed to eliminate confusion in the induction of very large groups from the same locality.

Board 3 which received its call this morning said the men this time will be supplied largely from 1-B men who were re-examined after the army relaxed its requirements. Included in the April group, however, will be a number of men who were recently married, clerks said.

SEEKS SHIPS

Army Asks For Funds to Aid In Transporting Troops.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — An urgent plea by army officers for an appropriation of $56,499,798 for charter of ships to aid the army in oversees movements was made public today in hearings of the senate appropriations committee on the $19,600,000,000 war bill.

Brig. Gen. T. H. Dillon, quartermaster corps, told the committee that the war department has primary responsibility for delivering troops and supplies overseas.

While there is a war shipping administration, the army operates independently to some extent.

WPB Curbs Production Of Electric Heating Pads, Chromium.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The war production board today limited production of electric heating pads and prohibited the use of chromium, needed for war production, in their manufacture.

Approximately 30 manufacturers, during 1942, may equal their 1940 production of hospital-type electric heating pads but will have to cut the number of pads for home use to half those made in 1940.

Report Schrembs 'Seriously Ill' Despite Recent Improvement.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The condition of Archbishop Joseph Schrembs, ill with pneumonia, remained critical today after a "fair night."

CONFERS: U. S. Envoy Sees Indian Nationalist Leader

BULLETIN

NEW DELHI, India—(UP)—Jawaharlal Nehru, leader of the All-India congress, has assured the United States that India's masses will "fight any Japanese aggression or any aggression to the end" if they are given control over their own defense policies, it was reported today.

NEW DELHI, India—(UP)—Louis A. Johnson, President Roosevelt's personal envoy to India, has conferred with Jawaharlal Nehru, Indian Nationalist leader, on Britain's offer of post-war dominion status to India and has forwarded a special report to President Roosevelt, it was made known today.

Johnson and Nehru, left wing leader in the Nationalist All-India congress, talked for 2½ hours last night at Cochin House, official residence of the American minister.

(There seemed no doubt that Johnson would have been able to tell Nehru that American opinion was that India ought to get together with Britain and get unitedly behind the United Nations war effort. Radical Indian quarters had shown open resentment of American newspaper comment in favor of acceptance of Britain's offer.)

REPULSED: Batan Defenders Smash New Japanese Attack

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's Batan defenders today snipped off the spearheads of a Japanese land and sea-borne pincers movement with point blank artillery fire that smashed enemy invasion barges on the east coast and threw back Jap infantry forces who had the support of tanks and dive bombers.

The first mention that Japanese tanks are being used in the Batan jungles indicated that the Japanese are gathering all their military might in an attempt to knock out the American-Filipino army which has kept the Japanese virtually stalled in the Manila bay area since shortly after the war began.

Again, Japanese losses were described as "heavy." In addition, the war department, in its communique, reported that "one enemy dive bomber was shot down by our anti-aircraft artillery."

"Though the assault was made with great force, supported by tanks, artillery and dive bombers, it was stopped by our troops after hard fighting," the communique said. The enemy was unable to extend the slight gains made on the previous day."

The second sea-borne attack within 48 hours was made by the

Big Crowd Expected for Beginning of Annual N-J Cooking School Tomorrow

A record attendance is expected at The Mansfield News-Journal's annual four-day cooking school scheduled to open tomorrow at 9 a. m. at the Ohio theater.

Because of the wartime nutrition program, it is expected that more Mansfield housewives than ever will register for the cooking and home making lectures which will be delivered by Mrs. Emily M. Lautz, nationally known food authority and lecturer on homemaking.

Mrs. Lautz has been called upon to replace Mrs. Myrtle Hickman, originally scheduled to conduct this year's cooking school. Mrs. Hickman became ill unexpectedly and is a patient in a Chicago hospital.

Mrs. Lautz will base her lectures and practical demonstrations on the advice of nutrition experts employed by the federal government. She will illustrate the proper methods for preparing healthful meals in a model kitchen installed on the stage of the Ohio theater.

The cooking sessions are free and housewives attending will be given valuable prizes daily as well as the culinary treats prepared in the course of the lectures.

The News-Journal school has always advocated better meals for better health but this year, according to Mrs. Lautz, this slogan is more important than ever because of the wartime emergency.

"It's our duty to keep ourselves healthy and able to do a good day's work," says Mrs. Lautz. "We not only save on medical supplies and attention which would be unnecessary but can also help turn out greater war production. Then too, with rising food prices, it's up to housewives to get the most out of their meals."

HUNT SURVIVORS OF JAP PLANES CEYLON BAGGED

as they came in at low level over the city.

For their disastrous debacle, the enemy got little. The attacking fleet was broken up and shattered by the ferocious Royal Air Force fighters. Little material damage was done and, of the relatively few casualties, half occurred in a plainly marked hospital which, Admiral Sir Geoffrey Layton, commander-in-chief, asserted, the Japanese bombed deliberately.

Though only 27 planes were claimed officially as certainly destroyed, it was believed that all 57 hit by British plane or ground gun fire were certainly downed.

They were all either based on enemy aircraft carriers in the Bay of Bengal or had to fly to their nearest base at Port Blair, in the Andaman islands 950 miles across the bay. There was believed to be no chance that any damaged plane got home.

Confident of easy victory, because of surprise, the Japs swept over the harbor. Dive bombers screamed down and other formations swept in with machine guns rattling.

It was evident that the Japanese did not know that for months the British had been strengthening their defenses in expectation of just such an attack.

As the enemy planes appeared, natives ran, as they had been instructed, to shelters, without the least sign of panic.

British fighter planes took to the air and almost before the raid started it was shattered in one of Japan's most humiliating single defeats of the war.

Jap Spearheads In Burma Gain Ground

NEW DELHI, India — (U.P.) — Japanese spearheads thrusting toward western Burma's oil fields menaced British defense positions 15 miles north of Captured Prome today while Chinese defenders of the eastern Allied flank faced a new threat along the Toungoo-Mawchi highway.

An India-Burma command communique disclosed that Japanese forward positions on the Irrawaddy front now center on the Nyaungbinzeik area above Prome, only 80 miles from the Minbu and Yenangyaung oil wells.

At Mawchi, about 35 miles east of Toungoo, are tin mines. It was believed the clash occurred north of Toungoo to protect these mines.

Reviewing the bloody 12-day battle for captured Toungoo, the communique said 3,700 Japanese had been killed.

It was believed the British commander, Gen. Harold R. L. G. Alexander, was attempting to establish a new line along the Iraawaddy, possibly less than 50 miles from the oil wells which annually produce 10,000,00 barrels of high-quality petroleum.

Allies Score In Australian Sector

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia — Allied warplanes were reported today to have destroyed or damaged between 35 and 40 Japanese planes in intensified week-end attacks at the northern approaches to Australia.

It was difficult to obtain an accurate count of the Japanese week-end aerial losses, although an Australian communique listed 35 enemy planes destroyed or damaged. Other dispatches from Port Moresby, New Guinea, and other sectors of the northern "invasion flank" indicated that the total was somewhat higher.

On Java, spring board for a threatened Japanese invasion of Australia, Dutch troops of "considerable size" were revealed officially to be fighting the Japanese in the interior jungles and mountains. The Dutch were reported well supplied with food and munitions.

American and Australian planes raided the Japanese invasion base of Koepang on the Dutch island of Timor northwest of Port Darwin for the second time in 24 hours yesterday to climax the week-end of Allied aerial successes, Prime Minister John Curtin announced.

British planes were credited with destroying or damaging 15 or 18 enemy planes in a "dramatic and brilliant hit-and-run" attack late Saturday on the Japanese-held Lae airdrome on the New Guinea coast.

Japs Raze Suburbs Of Manadaly, Report

CHUNGKING—(INS)—Chinese military quarters today confirmed destruction of the southern suburbs of Mandalay in a terrific Japanese bombing attack last Friday.

Burmese fifth columnists, including a number of monks, "went on a rampage" simultaneously with the attack, it was said, burning and looting everything in sight.

The city of Mandalay itself was not damaged, however.

Australia's Position Better, Says Forde

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Australia—(UP)—The encouraging word that Australia's position is much safer after two months of acute danger was given by Army Minister Francis M. Forde today after a series of smashing week-end successes in which Australian and American airmen destroyed at least 20 Japanese planes and damaged 19 others.

But he warned that Australia must be everlastingly prepared against attack.

"I am encouraging nobody to believe the tide has turned," he said after inspecting an American troop camp.

He said Australia owed her easier position "to speedy and generous help" from Britain and the United States plus measures taken by the dominion itself.

CONFERS WITH INDIAN LEADER

that Johnson gave him no letter or message from the president.

"We had a general discussion on many matters," he said.

It was understood that Nehru reported his talk to the working committee of the All-India congress this morning and that Johnson later would talk to Maulana Azad, president of the congress, and other leaders, including M. A. Jinnah, president of the Moslem league, the principal minority party.

Tomorrow Sir Stafford Cripps, British war cabinet envoy who submitted the offer to the Indians, is to receive, and to advise the nationalists of, the cabinet's "final" reply on the extent to which the offer may be changed to suit them.

Nationalists said they were dissatisfied over the conference Saturday between Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander in chief in India and Burma, and nationalist leaders Nehru and Azad. They complained that Wavell did not "commit" himself on the details of an Indian defense set-up in which an Indian, as defense minister, would share power over non-strategic defense problems.

The suggestion was advanced that as a solution Wavell might be named viceroy and put an Indian on his governing executive council thus assuring that there would be no interference in purely military matters.

Gandhi Admits Few Join In His Beliefs

LONDON—(INS)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of Indian masses and powerful figure in the All-India National Congress party will continue his campaign of opposition to warfare against the Japanese invaders he declared in an interview published today in the Daily Telegraph.

"But I have not been able to win over even my closest friends to my belief," the aged leader told the Daily Telegraph's correspondent in New Delhi.

"The Indian people are not armed, so what's the use of fighting people who are armed like the Japanese. I wouldn't surrender India to the Japanese. I would let them land and then fight them by non-violence."

Asked whether any circumstances could arise which would cause him to advocate armed resistance to the Japanese, Gandhi said without hesitation:

"No. The Chinese made the mistake of fighting the Japanese, and the fighting still goes on.

"But you must remember that you must be just as ready to lay down your life in non-violence as in violent warfare."

Japanese under cover of darkness but the army reported that it was "frustrated by light artillery fire from our beach defenses."

The first attack was made with barges mounting 75 mm. guns and carrying troops, but that also was smashed by American artillery on the east coast of Batan with heavy losses to the enemy.

Meantime, Corregidor experienced a comparatively quiet weekend.

"Corregidor was again free from hostile air raids," the communique said, "but two enemy dive bombers attacked Fort Frank yesterday morning and Fort Drum yesterday afternoon with light bombs. No damage and no casualties resulted."

Forts Drum and Frank are near the Cavite short of Manila bay.

Thwarted at every turn for nearly a month, Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita is digging deep into Japan's bag of military tricks in the hope that one of them eventually will enable him to penetrate the numerically inferior forces of Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's hitherto impregnable defense.

The 18th week of the war finds the American-Filipino forces holding their positions with a fierce determination that is causing severe losses to the Japanese. For two weeks they have met almost ceaseless enemy aerial and land assaults and have thwarted the enemy at every turn.

Yamashita may have other surprises in store but to date he has failed to gain ground either through superiority of manpower or the use of huge new type bombers and special "mystery" explosives, including flame bombs.

That the Japanese general has not exhausted his backlog of ingenious attack methods was indicated by the war department's latest communique which reported an unsuccessful enemy attempt to storm Wainwright's eastern beach defenses with 75 mm. guns mounted on barges.

Numerous attempts have been made by the Japs to land assault troops from barges on both coasts of Batan, but this was the first time that guns of this size were used in such a maneuver.

Wainwright's artillery succeeded in sinking several barges and turning back the others. No landings were effected.

which the British said had been turning out engine parts and other material for the Germans.

The Germans declared that only slight damage was sustained in the Paris region and "some material damage" and casualties in "residential sections" of western Germany.

Stockholm heard that British troops, apparently a commando force, raided the Narvik area of German-held Norway last Friday night, supported by planes. Explosions could be heard on the Swedish side of the frontier, which runs close to the coast in that far northern area, almost touching the inner reaches of Narvik fjord.

The authoritative London estimate that the RAF used more than 300 bombers last night was significantly advertised by the British in contrast to the reticence of the past. The figure was a close approach to the 400 bombers the Germans marshaled against London at the height of their assaults less than a year ago.

Last night's force was believed to have included scores of mammoth, four-motored Stirlings, each carrying eight tons of bombs.

Out of this armada, it was said, only five planes were lost—"a very satisfactory" ratio.

Masses of German and Axis-allied soldiers are clashing with Soviet Russian troops today in the snow and mud of the long, thawing Russian battlefield in heavy fighting apparently preliminary to Adolf Hitler's expected spring offensive.

The Russians declared that 102 German planes were shot down or destroyed on the ground Saturday and announced that the invaders lost 40,000 officers and men killed on the central front between March 23 and April 4.

The Moscow radio said German planes raided Leningrad Saturday night, the first big raid on Russia's second city in months. Bombs were said to have killed some persons in the city.

Bryansk Under Red Siege, Says Moscow

MOSCOW—(INS)—Russian guerillas have the key town of Bryansk under virtual siege the army newspaper Red Star reported today as indecisive fighting continued from Murmansk to the Crimea. Germans have evacuated all civilians from the eastern outskirts of Bryansk where the enemy has established strong defense positions, Red Star said.

(Ninety Russian divisions have been brought up to reinforce the 250-mile sector of the southern front between Taganrog and Kharkov, according to an Ankara dispatch to Reuters. The report was attributed to the Ankara radio to "Russian reports."

(It is in the southern sector that the German high command is expected to concentrate its next big offensive effort.)

Oldsters, 45-64, Given Three Days For Registration

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio's manpower in the 45-to-64 age bracket will register April 25, 26 and 27, Governor Bricker asserted in a proclamation today.

The nationwide registration is set for April 27, but the governor added the preceding Saturday and Sunday, between the hours of noon and 6 p. m., to accommodate those whose employment or other activities might make it difficult for them to sign up on Monday.

Approximately 50 per cent more than the 463,531 Ohio men who registered in the February draft are expected to sign up in the next registration, Col. Chester W. Goble, state selective service director, estimated.

However, the new registrants will not be available for army combat service, although provision may be made for the re-shuffling of those with needed skills in war industries.

Among Last Indian Scouts In U. S. Army

The three Indian braves pictured above are among the last links with the old Indian-fighting days of the west. Corp. Jim Lane, John Rope and Kassey Y-32, now stationed at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., are three of the last seven Indian scouts in the United States Army. The scouts were organized shortly after the Civil war to aid the army in its fights with Indian tribes. When the last seven retire or are discharged, none will replace them.

Thousands To Crowd City's Downtown For Parade Tonight

street to Fourth, west on Fourth to Mulberry, and south on Mulberry to Third street where it will disband.

In a quiet way, the city's Army Day observance got under way this morning. Hundreds of flags were displayed in the business section and in front of homes in response to an appeal from the celebration committee.

Helping to set the stage for the celebration, a contingent of about 1,300 soldiers went through the city over U. S. Route 42 Sunday morning to help Cleveland celebrate Army Day. The soldiers, most of them from Cleveland, have been stationed at Camp Forrest, Tenn. They were traveling in more than 150 modern armored units.

Other Ohio cities will mark Army Day with parades and programs, some of them holding all-day celebrations. Everywhere the people at home were ready to pay tribute to the men in the armed forces now and those who have fought for the nation's freedom in past wars.

Proclaimed by the president, Army Day is the anniversary of the United States' declaration of war on Germany 25 years ago.

High army leaders set the keynote today by declaring that America's thousands of fighting men eagerly await the day when they may take the offensive—an offensive that will not end "until freedom and peace are made safe throughout the world."

Already past the 2,000,000 mark, the army is growing fast toward the 1942 goal of 3,600,000.

Twenty-five years ago the United States army totaled 200,000.

President Roosevelt, in his Army Day proclamation, struck the theme of today's celebration:

"I most strongly urge that the people of the United States can best observe Army Day by honoring our citizen soldiers and giving special thought to the great responsibility for contributing unstintedly of their effort and of their means in order that our armed forces may be adequately equipped for victory."

One of the most symbolic events on the day's program was scheduled for tonight at Washington, where high government officials and officers of the Class of 1903 at the West Point Military academy will gather to unveil a bust of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Ella M. Hosler Dies at Home of Daughter.

Mrs. Ella M. Hosler, widow of the late Frank C. Hosler, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Scott, 481 Mation avenue, early this morning after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Hosler, the daughter of Eli and Sarah Cummings Porch, pioneer Richland county residents, was born at Homeworth, O., and came to Mansfield when a child. Her husband, a former president of the Tracy and Avery company, died in 1919. She was a member of Grace Episcopal church, the Women's Federation of Clubs and the Jared Mansfield chapter of the D. A. R.

Survivors are her daughter, Mrs. Scott, one son, Howard P. Hosler, both of Mansfield; two brothers, LeMoyne Porch of Mansfield, and Ralph W. Porch of Beverly Hills, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Frank Hickok of Mansfield; and five grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Jones Memorial where services will be held at 2:30 p. m., Wednesday in charge of Rev. Glenn Lewis, rector of the Grace Episcopal church. Burial will be in Marsfield cemetery.

SHELBY TIES FOR SECOND

Matches Springfield Score in Forensic League Tournament.

SHELBY — Shelby tied with Springfield for second place in the annual Western Ohio and Michigan National Forensic league tournament at Bowling Green which ended Saturday.

Dayton Oakwood won first place with 49 points while the second placers compiled 48 points each. Hamilton scored 46 points for third place.

Miss Lois Pittenger of Shelby won the dramatic declamation division of the tournament. Others winning trophies besides her from Shelby were Joan Fish, second in humorous declamation, Jeannette Freeman, second in oratorical declamation; and James Hohler as second best congressman. Hohler was speaker of the house in connection with the "mock" student congress held in conjunction with the tournament.

Miss Harriet Young won third place in humorous declamation to help the Shelby team into a tie for second place in the tournament.

EMPLOYMENT UP

Report 1,700,000 Civilians Are Engaged In Government Service.

WASHINGTOU — (AP) —Civilian employment in the government's executive branch climbed by another 32,177 persons during January to a record total of 1,703,099, as compared with 1,153,431 in January, 1941.

The increase, the civil service commission reported today, occurred despite the post office department's drop of 53,564 seasonal employes "and therefore shows a definite expansion due to the war program."

What do I do?

—to keep spark plugs "pepped up"?

The same thing happens to spark plugs that used to happen to the old oil-lamp chimney. After awhile they get coated with a heavy layer of black carbon. In that condition they can't give off a fat, hot spark any more than the dirty chimney could give good light. That means hard starting—extra wear on the battery—gasoline waste. MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1942.

"As long as our government secures to us the rights of persons and of property, liberty of conscience and of the press, it will be worth defending."—Andrew Jackson, in inaugural address, March 4, 1829.

Suggestion: Slightly worn trousers can be given a new appearance by having the cuffs removed.

Operators of the numbers racket are cheered by the thought that no metal is required in their equipment.

It was sixteen months ago that a Washington item brought the cheerful tidings: "The administration asks that all non-defense spending be pared to the bone." But there was no follow-up.

Let the Facts Become Known

THE RECENT clash between Vice President Wallace and Congressman Dies serves to again direct attention to the highly controversial subject of the Dies committee's investigation of un-American activities.

Congress has already voted approval of continuing the committee through another year but has not yet appropriated funds to meet the cost. It is on this point, apparently, that opponents of the committee are now concentrating their attacks in an effort to withhold money needed to permit the committee to function.

The blast from Vice President Wallace came after a Dies committee accusation that a considerable number of employes of the board of economic warfare were affiliated with Communist front organizations and that others were suspected of "Communistic leanings."

Already C. Hartley Grattan, one of ten EWB employes named by Dies, has resigned from the board and if he work of the Dies committee can be made effective, even to a small extent, in removing from places of high responsibility in government the type of persons who are either affiliated or sympathetic with un-American principles, its work should be carried forward without hindrance.

There is a feeling over the country that the present federal administration is dangerously infested with Communist affiliates and sympathizers, and, to the rank and file of real Americans, this is just as objectionable as encouragement of any other alien "ism."

"Communism" is an experiment in Russia, where some adaptation of its principles may fit into the peculiar needs of the time and people. "Democracy" is an experiment in the United States of America and there is widely spread belief in this country that the experiment should be carried further, rather than that the idealistic exponents of Communism be encouraged to scheme the overthrow of this form of government.

Mailed Fist Strikes Brutally

JAPANESE HORRORS have, for a little while, distracted American attention from German horrors. The latter go on systematically and relentlessly in every country overrun by Hitler's armies, but especially in Poland.

In that tragic land the Nazis are waging a war of extermination against a brave and gifted race, now helpless. Surrender was not enough after Hitler had struck down Poland in violation of his own peace pledges. The mere fact that the Poles dared to resist infuriated the Nazis and resulted in the greatest crime of western Europe in modern times.

The horrible facts are set forth in a White Book published in this country by the Greystone Press. The calm recital shows what a self-styled "master race" is capable of doing in the heart of modern Europe and in defiance of modern civilization. The once kindly German people are ordered to "behave as masters." And they obey, with results possibly as fatal to them in the long run as to their victims now.

This savagery is practiced, apparently, not only because the Nazis want the Polish lands and resources, but as an object lesson to other nations coveted by Hitler and his brutalized followers. It is what the Nazi Germans will do to Britain and America if they can.

Wartime Transportation Situation

RAILROADS of this country are now hauling 800,000 cars of freight each week. That is an all-time record—more freight than any transportation system anywhere has ever been called upon to handle.

By mid-summer, it is estimated, the total will probably reach 900,000 cars a week. And when the time comes for wheat movement next fall, it is possible that the load will reach the almost incredible figure of 1,000,000 cars a week.

If this gigantic load is to be handled with maximum speed and minimum delay, it is obvious that certain definite things must be done. First, the railroads must have their plant at the absolute peak of efficiency and flexibility. That, fortunately for the welfare and security of this country, has already been accomplished. For more than 20 years the lines have been preparing for a war emergency. The fact that there has been no transportation bottleneck, and that they have met new and unprecedented demands with complete efficiency, is a tribute to this foresight.

Second, shippers must give the lines maximum co-operation. In the last war cars were used as warehouses. Days and weeks passed before they were unloaded on reaching their destination. Today, through the shippers' advisory boards, splendid progress has been made in solving this problem. The vital thing is to keep cars moving—and to cut the time used for loading and unloading to the absolute minimum.

Third, the railroads must be permitted to purchase new equipment when needed. Cars, locomotives and other vital railroad needs must be put high on priority lists. That is vital to the war effort.

The undaunted spirit of the Dutch is reflected in a saying of their great national hero, William the Silent, who in the 16th century helped to gain their independence from Spain. He said, "Success is not necessary to remain brave, nor do we need hope in order to hold on."

Under a new ruling American doughboys in that area are permitted to marry Australian girls—always with the understanding that "there is no just impediment"—such as a wife at home.

Phil Sheridan's "twenty miles away" wouldn't have rated a poem if he'd had a modern plane at hand to make the trip in a couple of minutes.

It may at least be hoped that the primary intent of those Victory bathing suits, designed for next summer's wear, is to display patriotism.

HE'D BETTER PICK IT QUICK!

Causes and Effects of Inflation

Editor's Note—The following from the Minneapolis Star-Journal is such a clear presentation of the meaning, causes and effects of inflation that it is reproduced in the belief that it will answer many questions being asked on that subject.

IF RESPONSIBLE public health officials were to warn the people of the United States that a terrible typhoid epidemic was going to sweep the country unless we all boiled our drinking water, we would boil it.

If they told us the whole country was in danger of a smallpox epidemic, and urged us to be vaccinated, most of us would follow their advice.

But when competent economists warn us about inflation, and tell us what we must do as a nation if we are to avoid it, most of us are merely bored or bewildered; we turn away from it, because it is disagreeable to think about, and hope that somebody else will do something about it or that in some way we will be able to avoid it.

We took that attitude about the danger of Nazis and Japanese aggression but we weren't able to avoid it finally, as a nation or as individuals. It is a hundred times as impossible for us to shrug off the national and individual consequences of inflation.

What Inflation Is.

Inflation is not really a hard subject to understand, nor a difficult thing to avoid, if as a nation we will only determine to do the things that must be done to avoid it.

Inflation (soaring prices) is simply what results when purchasing power gets a long way ahead of the volume of goods and services available for purchase. This happened in Germany in the early 1920's when the government turned out an excessive amount of printing press money to pay its running expenses, and German factories could not produce enough more goods to keep up with the increased purchasing power which resulted from currency expansion.

Because of the demands of the war, more people are now employed in the United States than ever before; their total wages, including overtime payments, are far higher than ever before; and the public's purchasing power (the demand for goods) is far greater than ever before.

But at the same time the goods and services available to the public for civilian consumption are going down in volume because so much of what we produce is war materials.

The national income for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1942, will be about 115 billion dollars. That means we are going to produce 115 billion dollars worth of goods and services, and earn thereby 115 billion dollars to spend.

But about 55 billion dollars worth of the 115 billions in goods which we produce will be war goods, so there will be only 60 billion dollars worth of consumer goods and services.

Of the 115 billion dollars we earn, about 30 billions will go for taxes or into savings, leaving the public 85 billion dollars in purchasing power.

THIS MEANS WE WILL HAVE 85 BILLION DOLLARS WITH WHICH TO BUY 60 BILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF CIVILIAN GOODS.

Unless we absorb in some way the 25 billion dollars of surplus purchasing power, prices are bound to be pulled up and up by competitive bidding, no matter how hard we try to fix prices, and the public is going to spend 85 billion dollars for 60 billion dollars worth of goods and services.

That is inflation. If it happens this year on a 25-billion-dollar scale, it will be repeated on an ever-larger scale in 1943 and 1944 and 1945. If inflation is to be stopped, it has got to be stopped in 1942, not next year or the year after.

How to Avoid It.

There are two practical ways to stop inflation now—two practical ways to absorb those billions of dollars of excess buying power and reduce the demand for civilian goods and services to equal the supply—since we cannot increase the supply.

One is by tax increases plus voluntary purchase of defense bonds and the other is by compulsory savings, deducted from present wages by the government and paid back to the savers after the war to spend for peacetime goods when there is a normal supply of peacetime goods again, at peacetime prices.

The new taxes must be collected now—not next year, but beginning just as soon as congress can pass the legislation. The best single way to accomplish that is to enact a sales tax—perhaps a good name for it would be "victory tax."

This reaches small incomes as well as large. It would be a kindness to spare small earners if that were possible—but it isn't. We will harm all earners, and small ones most of all, if we distribute money anywhere, to spend for goods that don't exist, and so produce inflation.

A sales tax is preferable to lowering income tax exemptions, and increasing rates, because a sales tax begins absorbing increased purchasing power at once: it isn't something that can be paid next year on money that is being earned now.

Compulsory savings deducted from wages and saved by the government, must supplement increased taxes because it just isn't practical to take away by taxation all of our increased earnings; that would destroy the tangible incentive to work harder, and earn more. People will favor compulsory savings if they understand that it means (1) preventing inflation now, and (2) having the money to spend later when there are again civilian goods and services to spend it for.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, April 6, 1922.

State Senator Henry R. Endly, of Mansfield, was chosen to manage campaign of Simeon D. Fess for Republican senatorial nomination.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Schmidt, West Fourth street, returned from Lake Wales, Fla., where they spent the winter.

A. D. Caddell, superintendent of North American Watch company, spoke on "Canada" at meeting of Kiwanis club.

Informal reception was given for Rev. N. A. Hassel, who succeeded Rev. F. A. Schreiber as pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church.

David Buell, Glessner avenue, bought property at 159 South Mulberry street.

Dr. S. N. Alban, former Mansfield physician, died in Alberta, Canada.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, April 6, 1937.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder was appointed city and county health commissioner.

John E. Kolb was installed as exalted ruler of the Mansfield lodge of Elks.

Mansfield dog owners were warned by Police Chief Meade K. Bates to keep their dogs tied, "or else—."

Bert E. Kuhn, ex-county commissioner and Democratic leader, died in the Cleveland clinic.

Mrs. E. J. Gilbert was elected president of the Mansfield Federation of Women.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Early in the morning of Good Friday, April 6, 1917, a resolution declaring a state of war with Germany and empowering the president to carry on war with all the power of our nation was adopted by the house (373 to 50) after a sixteen-hour debate. The senate had already passed the measure by a vote of 86 to 6 on April 4.

Timely Editorial

Keep On Writing.

Reports from here, there, and everywhere in the United States are that mounting thousands of American citizens are sitting down, taking pen, pencil, or typewriter in hand, and writing letters to the members of congress. These plain folks are saying just about the same thing: namely, that they want Washington to wake up and realize that there is a war on.

They want strikes and lockouts stopped. They want an end to federal boondoggling. They are tired of seeing their money wasted by do-gooders who are chasing the phantoms of social gains. They are weary of doubledomes, bleeding-hearts, and educated fools in places that call for men with the God given gift of common sense polished and improved by days and years of hard work and practical experience.

To all these folks we say: "Keep punching. Your fight is a righteously patriotic one, and, unless you win it, the United States can lose this war."—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

United Auto Workers Consider Open War to Oust John L. Lewis

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There is a lot more in the wind at the special executive board meeting of the powerful United Auto Workers this week than the announced purpose to decide on whether the union shall waive double pay for Sunday and holiday work. Inside indications are that approval of this step is certain.

An undisclosed item on the agenda is the question of the UAW declaring open war on John L. Lewis and embarking on a campaign to drive his cohorts out of Michigan.

In recent months Lewis elements have been very active in the state. Hand-picked henchmen have been conducting an organizing drive among dairy farmers, signing them up as members of the United Mine Workers. Other henchmen have been active among utility, transportation and construction workers. Still others have been busy under cover within the UAW itself.

It was these last operations that decided UAW chiefs to call for a bare-knuckle showdown with the miner czar.

Privately they have been sore at him for a long time. But until he started meddling in the affairs of their union, they kept their grievances to themselves. Now, however, they are determined to have it out with him, and the executive board will be asked to approve such action.

If the board does give the green light, the stage will be set for momentous labor history.

It will mean that Lewis faces a head-on battle with another CIO union as big as his own. It also will mean that the other CIO leaders and unions will have to take sides and declare themselves for or against Lewis.

CIO insiders say there can be only one outcome of such a battle: Either Lewis will quit the CIO or be expelled from it.

The betting is that he will walk out. There already are significant signs that he is secretly planning this.

Note: At a private meeting of UAW leaders several weeks ago, UAW President R. J. Thomas charged that Lewis was secretly supporting restrictive labor bills in congress.

Would-Be Statesman.

EVERY election campaign produces a crop of "novel" office seekers and this year Montana has the record of being the first to turn up one of this ilk.

He is Byron DeForest, Great Falls credit exchange official, who has tossed his hat into the ring as a Republican congressional aspirant. In a long statement, interspersed with frequent capitalizing, DeForest gives these reasons for wanting to go to congress—

1. "To start something which will really set people agog and take their minds off the war."

2. "To run as the anti-New Deal, horse and buggy candidate. My wife and I took our first honeymoon with a horse and buggy, hence the horse and buggy slogan."

3. "To say and demonstrate that the New Deal has just about wiped out every semblance of democracy we have in this nation."

4. "As I'll not have much work the balance of this year I fancy I could have a lot of fun in a campaign."

And on flaming battlefields all over the world, men are fighting and dying to save democracy and freedom for mankind.

A Communist Front.

LAST MONTH the house voted overwhelmingly to continue the Dies committee for another year. But the Texan still has to run the gantlet of the appropriations committee before he gets any money to continue his hotly controversial operations.

Dies is no hero to leaders of this potent committee. Further, his Communism-nudism blast, without the knowledge or authorization of other members of his committee, at officials of Vice President Wallace's Economic Warfare Board, has not made these committee leaders feel any kindlier toward Dies.

But the thing that has really got them up in arms is a charge that Dies' committee is being secretly used by Communists to wreak vengeance on liberals who have fought the Reds.

It is charged that one of Dies' chief investigators, a former fellow traveller, still has close ties with his one-time Kommy pals, and that they supply him with lists of alleged Communists, who are actually bitter foes, in order to smear them as Reds.

This is an old Kommy stratagem. They used it to get revenge on David Lasser, head of the Workers Alliance. Lasser fought the Kommies within the organization tooth and nail and finally, when he couldn't drive them out, resigned and started a new outfit that smashed the Alliance.

The Reds have never forgiven him for this and last year they secretly accused him in certain influential congressional quarters of being a Communist. As a result he was fired from a government job.

Several appropriation leaders want to dig into these charges and Dies may have the interesting experience of being subjected to an investigation himself.

White House Guards.

THE tragic killing of an FBI agent by two army deserters in Virginia recently had an important repercussion which has not been advertised.

The incident caused a shakeup in the military guard of the White House.

What only a few insiders know is that the two deserters had served as White House sentries for some time. At that time no effort was made to investigate the background and character of soldiers detailed for this duty. Those assigned by the unit were accepted without question.

However, since the killing of the FBI man, and the startling discovery that the slayers formerly were detailed to guard the president, there has been a sweeping change in regulations. The secret service now makes a minute investigation of every soldier who patrols the White House grounds.

Health And Diet

Upset Digestion Causes Dyspepsia.

—By DR. CLENDENING

DYSPEPSIA may be defined in a broad way as any disturbance of the digestion.

Digestion starts in the mouth, depends on good teeth, then depends on the swallowing power of the esophagus, and then is continued in the stomach and then continued in the intestines with the help of the pancreas and its juices and the liver and the bile and then depends on the action of thirty or more feet of large and small intestine. All of these processes may be attacked by infection or mechanical derangements, especially by emotional disturbances or interferences of the mind, so it is not surprising that dyspepsia is quite common and that it requires a good deal of unraveling to make a good diagnosis.

Effects of the Liver.

Consider one thing: the liver and the bile ducts. When surgeons began to operate on this part of the anataomy, which was about the early 90's of the last century, they immediately announced to the medical world, on the basis of their operative experience, that a great many cases of chronic dyspepsia that had been so treated for many years were relieved when gall stones were removed or when the gall bladder was drained or removed.

Nor is it surprising that these conditions should be very common. The anatomy of the body is so arranged that all of the material absorbed from the intestines goes up through the portal vein to the liver. So since a great deal of this material is poisonous, one of the chief functions of the liver is that of detoxification.

It really stands as a guardian for the rest of the body and empties that material which comes from the intestines of its poisonous qualities. It is not surprising that occasionally it is not up to the job and some of the poison gets past it and causes some trouble in doing so.

Germs From the Intestines.

Also, since the intestines are constantly filled with germs of all kinds, it is not surprising that a great deal of the material that reaches the liver by way of the portal vein should be loaded with germs. These the liver discharges into the bile and all too often they arrive in the gall bladder and set up an inflammation of the walls of this organ.

Thus we have the formation of gall stones. A germ lies on the wall of the gall bladder and the gall bladder secretes a mucous to surround the germ and this acts as a foreign body on which the salts of the gall bladder are deposited. If you see a picture of a gall stone cut across the middle it shows rings like the rings of the tree, which mark the successive deposits of layers of these bile salts.

After the stones have formed they can raise all kinds of trouble, making a person uncomfortable in the region of the stomach with gas, flatulence, nausea and actual gall stone colic. Thus we see that the various normal functions of the digestive tract may be turned awry and these upsets lead to one form or another of the common symptom, dyspepsia.

A Farmer's Diary

Penny

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN I was younger our nearest neighbor owned a little woolly dog. They called him Penny. The public highway ran between their house and barn, and I often passed that way, on foot. Penny in no way respected my right to travel there in peace.

In winter, when I wore an overcoat, that homely yipping fiste would rush savagely at my heels, then grab the coat tail and hang on like a bulldog. When a covering of snow was on, I often dragged him ten or twenty yards. When thaws came, and mud was deep, he nipped my ankles and often ripped the cuffs of my pants. Beside the mud his dirty feet would heap upon me. I despised and feared the dirty looks he gave before he made his contacts; and I almost knew that some day he would bite the heels of a traveler who would show less sympathy toward the canine tribe than I.

These neighbors had a little girl of four—an only child. The homely dog was her playmate and companion. Often from the hillside near our home, I watched them play together. One late summer afternoon when tired of play, the child fell asleep on the grass near a deep stony ditch. Penny nervously licked her face to wake her. Failing, he stepped between the narrow edge and the sleeping child and when she stirred, grabbed her loose play suit and rolled her back, with all his strength. By repeated holds, he gained the safer distance of three feet, then lay down against her side, his nose between his paws.

A few days later, coming cautiously down that way, I heard the little girl sobbing. She was sitting on the grass beside the hedge holding Penny's woolly head upon her knee, and stroking his bloody face.

"What happened?" I asked, walking up close.

"A car hit 'im," and then she wept again. "He might get well though and then we can play again—see how he moves!"

She did not know, as I did, that it was the end. I went quickly on, not able to tell the child that her pet was dead . . . not able to rejoice that no yipping pest would make savage thrusts at me, ever again.

The next day, a mound of clay beyond the garden fence had two brilliant dahlias stuck in at each end. The little mourner stood silently looking at it. "He was such a very good dog," she said, and her chin quivered.

"We're all goin' to miss him wonderfully," I agreed, and felt like a hypocrite.

KINGS ROW + + + + +

CHAPTER XV

Dr. Tower looked grave. "Well, keep your mind open. You're going to see and learn a lot of new things in your life. We're on the brink—the very brink of important discoveries. You'll see. And —I guess, even at the risk of paying myself a compliment, I'd advise you to trust your instincts as you call them—your intuitions. Sometimes intuitions are a good corrective for the natural astigmatisms of human perceptions."

Dr. Tower smiled again. "What are your plans for—later, Parris? After Vienna?"

"I want to be a doctor out at the asylum."

"Here—in King's Row?"

"Yes, sir."

"What put that idea into your head?"

"Tom Carr."

"Who is he?"

"A man who works on our place."

"Indeed. You seem to have a number of influences."

Parris flushed again. He felt his cheeks grow hotter as Dr. Tower's sarcastic tone took full effect. He spoke up with an almost defiant loyalty. "Tom Carr is a very unusual man."

"I have no doubt. Suppose you tell me about him."

Parris related the story of Lucy Carr and her death, and explained the way he had felt, even at the outset of his acquaintance with her, that there should be some way to seize her flitting mind and hold it still. Dr. Tower listened without a word of comment.

"And there's another thing, too —somebody else."

Parris told Dr. Tower of Benny Singer and of old Tom Carr's theories about curing him, or at least helping him. He finished, a little disconcerted by Dr. Tower's silence. The doctor pushed the papers aside.

"I owe you some kind of an apology."

"What for?"

"Well, if you don't know, all right. I apologize just the same. You ought to be a fine doctor. There's just one thing I feel a little dubious about."

Parris waited.

"It's your idea of coming back here to King's Row."

"Well. Tom Carr was the first one to suggest it, and then I kind of mentioned it to my grandmother, and she spoke right away to Colonel Skeffington, and he spoke to Dr. Nolan out at the asylum."

Dr. Tower laughed once more. "I dare say. I dare say. Well, you seem to have friends paving the way for you. It's just—"

"Just what, sir?"

"'Young eagles should nest far from home.' Ever hear of that?"

"No, sir."

"It's a good saying. There's a curious rivalry between the old and the young. It's everywhere, but it's keener, and it's more ruthless and more cruel in the home nest, so to speak."

"I—I guess I don't understand that very well."

* * *

He had seen Cassandra several times this year—"whenever she could slip away," as she said. He had never felt any unease of conscience about it. Those meetings with Cassandra were in a world apart. Once Dr. Tower had used the phrase, "We live in multiple worlds many of which are solitary and strange to all others," and he had found himself making immediate application of the figure to himself and Cassandra. As Drake would have said, and did, in fact, say several times, it was their own business.

Just now he was less certain about that.

Cassandra! He could not precisely say to himself how he felt about her. He had always been quite clear about his feelings for other people. His likes and dislikes, his attractions and gravitations, fell into easily recognizable categories. He knew exactly how he felt about Renee—still. He knew how he felt about Drake, and almost anyone he knew well. But, Cassie. That was a different relationship. She made him uncomfortable sometimes, and sometimes she almost terrified him. She was so wild, so violent, so—so furious. He understood now what she had said that first night in this very study. She had been right. He was not in love with her—not exactly. He didn't know what to call it. It was fascination of some kind that came back again and again with unflagging force.

Just now he was once more aware of the disastrous consequences that might follow if Dr. Tower so much as suspected anything. There was a quality of threat about the man that was not comfortable to contemplate.

* * *

Parris hurried toward home. He was nearly at the end of Federal street when Drake overtook him. Drake had gotten rid of old Molly, and the new chestnut horse was smart-looking and high-spirited.

"Hop in. I'll drive you home. I got something for you."

"Oh." Parris' exclamation was dull and disinterested.

"Is that the way you receive a note from your sweetheart?"

"Let's see the note."

Drake gave it to him. "In my box this morning."

Parris read the few lines hurriedly. "Oh, gee!" He sounded dismayed.

"What's the matter?"

"She wants to see me at your house tonight."

"Don't you want to?"

"I just can't see her tonight."

"What's the matter with that gal, anyhow?"

"She's just — well, strange, Drake. Cassie—gee, I feel terrible talking about her like this. You know I wouldn't to anybody else. But she frightens me, sometimes. She's so—intense."

"I know."

"She's pretty swell, Drake."

"Maybe a little crazy. Like her old man. Else why would he try to keep her locked up at home like he does?"

Parris thinned his lips. "He's not crazy, Drake. He's more intelligent than all of Aberdeen college put together."

"All the same, there's something pretty funny about that house. And old Cass—you just now said yourself . . ."

"All right, all right. But I can't see her tonight. And I haven't got any way to let her know."

"I'll just tell her you couldn't come."

"It's my grandmother I'm worried about, Drake."

"Well, you're not her doctor—not yet. Better come on back with me."

Parris thought about it. He wanted to go back.

"I tell you, Drake. I'll have supper at home. I—I got to talk to Anna about my grandmother. Then if I feel better, I'll come on later."

"And if you don't?"

"I'll telephone you."

Anna listened carefully to Parris. She controlled her face and answered him calmly, remembering Madame's warning.

"To tell you the truth, Parris, Madame did see Dr. Ladd."

"Consultation?"

"Yes. Dr. Gordon thought she ought, too. There's no use denying she ain't been so well, but she's better. Don't you think she looks better?"

"No."

"Madame's not so young, Parris, and little things get wrong with you when you get older. But you shouldn't worry now. You work hard and don't worry. I look after her the best I can."

"Where is Grand'mere now?"

"She's lying down. She said she wanted to nap. I guess you better not wake her up."

He felt mightily relieved. "All right. I guess I just got a little worried when Dr. Tower said he thought she didn't look so well."

"She's had a little cold, you know. That pulls a body down, too. Look, Parris. The cookies are done."

Parris grinned. "And a glass of milk!"

"Good. I get it right away."

* * *

Parris was invaded by the strangest discomfort he had ever known. He was unable to analyze it, but he knew it was more acute and arose from deeper sources than the normal unrest of spring. He roamed the place from end to end. As soon as he sat down to work he thought of some corner of a field, some stretch of windy slope, some tree, even, that he felt he must see at once.

Madame Von Eln observed his restlessness. So did Anna.

"Anna, what is the matter with Parris? He seems unlike himself these days."

"Yes, Madame, I have been watching him. He no sooner comes in than he goes out again."

"Where is he now?"

"Up there at the beginning of the orchard. He's standing there looking at a tree."

"A tree? Looking at a tree, did you say?"

"Yes, Madame."

"Anna, are you suggesting that my grandson is maybe a little peculiar in the head?"

Anna laughed. "No, Madame, no, no. But he looks at stones, too."

Madame resumed her seat, and Anna spread the brilliant peacock afghan over her feet. Madame put on her thick-lensed glasses and looked at Anna with lively amusement.

"Anna, I understand you less and less each minute. Of course he looks at things. How could he avoid looking at things? Come now, what are you talking about?"

Anna took a deep breath and wrapped her hands stubbornly in her checked gingham apron.

"It is just as I say, Madame. All the time he goes out. He comes in, then he goes out. Then he looks at things."

Madame began to laugh. Her thin shoulders shook. "Anna, you are a true Alsatian. Tell me in your own way. Go on."

"It is peculiar. He walks all over the place; he looks at the sky and at the ground and at the trees. He picks up a stone and stares at it as if it were strange, then drops it and picks up another. He feels of twigs and fingers at the evergreens. and—and—looks at things."

"Heaven help us, maybe he's turning poet."

"No Madame."

"No, Madame."

"Anna, maybe there is a girl!"

"I don't think so."

"What is the matter with this young gentleman, then?"

"I think he is in love—"

"But you said—"

"Oh, not with a girl, Madame, but here—with this place."

"I have no idea what you are talking about."

"It is this. I think Parris feels something. I think he does not change. I think he is afraid something is to happen and he does not understand. Oh, Madame, you know I have watched him grow every day of his life. I feel, in here, sometimes just what he feels. I think he cannot help but see that you are not well—".

Madame was silent for several minutes. Anna kept her hands tightly twisted in her apron."

"You were saying, Anna, that he is in love with this place."

"Yes, of course. It is home. Madame, I remember it well, when I knew I was to leave my home forever, I could not see it enough. I looked at every bush, every little leaf. It is like that, Madame, with Parris."

"Perhaps you are right, Anna. I suppose there is nothing we can do."

TRAINS PILOTS TO FLY GLIDERS

MOFFETT FIELD, Cal. — (U.P.) — Gliding, the "crazy hobby" which suddenly grew up, now has its place in the U. S. fighting forces.

Crack pilots of the west coast air corps training centers are learning the tricks of flying without motors at a little desert vacation spot in southern California named Twenty-nine Palms.

Gliding grew up with the present war. In the invasion of Crete, Nazi troops were transported in bomber-towed gliders. Gliders can be built to carry up to 24 men.

The war requires glider pilots —and the air corps is sending some of its best men to learn the tricks of riding the wind and hunting for thermals which shoot them high above the earth.

The course at Twenty-nine Palms lasts four weeks, includes instruction in two-place, eight-place and 15-place ships.

HUNTING LAWS TO BE STUDIED

Sports Group Urged To Be at Session Tuesday For Game Discussion.

Possible need for changes in hunting laws for the coming season and other aspects of game management will be discussed at a meeting of Richland county Conservation committees at 8 p. m., Tuesday, in the Mansfield municipal courtroom.

John Swisher, chairman of the committee, stated today that all persons interested in the subject are invited and, although the organization bears the name "committee," it is designed to give all sportsmen's groups, farm organizations, conservation groups and individuals an opportunity to express themselves on fish and game regulations.

State Conservation Commissioner Don Waters has urged as large an attendance as possible at county meetings, because, while a public hearing will be held in Columbus this month by the Conservation commission to hear a discussion of the game laws, many persons cannot get to Columbus due to wartime conditions.

C. I. Kimmel, Richland county game protector, is assisting the committee in arrangements for the meeting, from which two representatives will be sent to a district meeting. From the district meetings will go 14 district representatives to the public hearing in Columbus where they will meet with the state Conservation and Natural Resources commission before definite regulations are adopted by the commission.

COURT NEWS IN ASHLAND COUNTY

ASHLAND — Common pleas court has directed George P. Gongwer, receiver for the Eagle Rubber company, to pay $62 in rent to the Erie Railroad company and $25 for a bond premium.

Two suits filed in Ashland common pleas court by Bessie E. Jaques seek judgment of $1,200 and determination of priority of liens. Judgment of $1,200 is sought against John G. and Sudie E. Duffy and A. Wade Shriver for alleged breach of contract, the plaintiff claiming that when she bought a property from the Duffys, through Shriver as agent, it was represented that the only encumbrances were delinquent taxes and a mortgage to the Home Owners Loan corporation in addition to a mortgage she held for a loan of $475

The other suit brought by Mrs. Jaques names George Duffy and the Division of Aid for Aged as defendants and asks that her mortgage be declared a prior lien to the mortgage assigned by Duffy to the Division of Aid for the Aged and that it either be determined the property is of less value than the liens, and the mortgage cancelled, or that the property be sold and the plaintiff paid the amount of the HOLC mortgage and taxes she paid.

A divorce has been granted in Ashland common pleas court to Dorothy C. Reese in her suit against Harry E. Reese on grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty.

Maule M. Wilt has been decreed a divorce in her suit against Thomas A. Wilt, the defendant being adjudged guilty of extreme cruelty.

CROWDS ATTEND SHELBY EASTER CHURCH RITES

Capacity Audience on Hand For Services; Congregations Gather at Sunrise

SHELBY — Capacity audiences attended the special Easter services Sunday at Shelby churches which featured special music by the choirs and sermons by the pastors.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship had charge of the early sunrise service at First Methodist church. The Youth choir, directed by Mrs. Howard Wildman, sang the music. Taking part on the program were Betty Hart, Edwin Dick, Nancy Nimmons, and Marijane Boulware. The prayer was given by the pastor, Rev. Arthur Staples. A record congregation of 450 persons attended the unified service in the morning when new members were taken in and adults baptized.

A sunrise service at 7 a. m. and a children's program in the evening were special Easter services at First Baptist church. A play, "The Bearer of the Cross," featured the children's program. Taking part in the play were Mary Schlereth, Dan Melick, Dorothy Briggs, Eileen Clark, Melvin Lake and Glenn Briggs. Other young people taking part in the program were Danny Melick, Larry Young, Darly Purvis, David Riley, Nelson Johnson, Donald Roberts, Shirley Fletcher, Bonnie Robinson, LaDonna Quiggle, Donald Jones, Bonnie Graham, Mary Martha Hassler, Shirley Seitz, Sue Cain, and the Beckel sisters.

The men of the First Evangelical and Reformed church had charge of the early Easter morning service at that church. Other sunrise services were held at the United Brethren church where Miss Twilah Setterfield had charge, at First Lutheran church where the choir sang special Easter music under direction of H. V. Barrett of Ashland, accompanied by Mrs. T. C. Hahn at the organ and Miss Margaret Cumberworth at the piano, and at the Church of Nazarene where a prayer meeting was held.

Other appropriate services during the day were held at First Presbyterian, St. Mark's Episcopal, Church of Christ, and Most Pure Heart of Mary Catholic churches.

ENTERTAINS CLUB

LOUDONVILLE—The Congenial Eight Euchre club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hoffman last week. Prizes were won by Mrs. Warren Ridge, Mrs. L. Huffman, Lou Huffman, Mrs. Bryant Workman and Mrs. John Eberhart.

PARENTS OF DAUGHTER

ASHLAND — Mr. and Mrs. George Boyer, Ashland, are the parents of a daughter born Friday at Samaritan hospital.

CHURCHES HOLD EASTER SERVICE

Hundreds Gather For Worship at Galion, Join In Sunday Parade.

GALION—With a bright morning sun to encourage Easter paraders, hundreds of persons gathered in churches here Sunday on the first Easter of the present war.

Churches were filled to capacity with worshipers for the various programs that had been planned by ministers, choir directors, organists and other church members.

Bells of the city churches signalled the sunrise service. Young people of First Reformed church presented a service at 6 a. m.

At United Brethren church a sunrise service was followed by a young peoples' breakfast.

Special services at the churches during the day included the presentation of a cantata by both the junior and senior choirs under the direction of Mrs. W. C. Kanable at the First Presbyterian church.

Under the direction of Mrs. Lloyd Ridenour, Market Street Methodist church presented a special musical during the morning hours when new members were received.

An Easter cantata was given at the First Methodist church under the direction of Mrs. J. V. Dye.

On Sunday evening, a cantata was given at the Church of the Nazarene.

At Trinity Lutheran church a student pastor, Edmund Pipho of Columbus, delivered the morning sermon.

The Church of Christ had a special children's service in the morning, and at First Baptist church there was a children's program and baptismal service in the evening.

Other churches of the city also had special features during the day's services.

WED RECENTLY

ASHLAND—Miss Mina Cameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cameron of Jeromesville, and Clair Gantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Gantz of Polk, were married Friday at the home of Rev. P. M. Redd, pastor of the First Brethren church of Ashland. Attending the couple were John Fenstermaker of Homerville and Miss Helen Stillman of Ashland.

Mr. and Mrs. Gantz will reside near Polk where Mr. Gantz is engaged in farming.

COMMISSIONERS DRAW 39 NAMES FOR JURY PANEL

Extra Drawings Ordered as Court Predicts Farm Work Will Hamper Hearings.

Anticipating that farmers may not want to take time out from their spring work to serve on juries, the Richland county jury commission Saturday drew the names of 39 prospective jurors, 12 more than will be needed for the April term grand and petit juries.

The additional jurors will provide a reserve to replace farmers who ask to be excused from duty because of the urgency of their spring work, court officials said.

The January term of court does not close until April 20, so no dates were set for the convening of the new juries. Jurors will be notified when the court sets the time for them to convene. It is expected that the January term petit jury will be reconvened to hear several cases during the remaining two weeks of the present court term.

Drawn for grand jury duty were:

William Case, 409 Bowman street; Dewey Hammond, Bloominggrove township; Kathryn F. Gross, 301 West Fourth street; Mrs. Mary B. George, 538 Park avenue west; Jennie Olds, Washington township; H. J. Goldsmith, Jefferson township; W. C. Eckstein, Sandusky township; Fred Griffin, Troy township; Lloyd Craven, Perry township; Harry Young, Jefferson township; George Hoffman, Shelby; Sam Cashman, Plymouth township; Mrs. Irene Brown, 206 North Diamond street; Leroy Tennis, Butler township, and Walter Kirkpatrick, Worthington township.

Listed as prospective petit jurors were:

Ralph Beck and Gene Mattuch of Lucas; Dean Tolles, Weller township; George Turner, 605 Grant street; E. C. Daley, Butler; Ralph Lutz, Lexington; Frank Mitchell, 633 Coleman road; Mrs. Zona Boyd, 39 Waring avenue; Ralph Barr, Mifflin township; C. A. Hamilton, Shelby; Joseph McFarland, 346 Springmill street; Charles Walker, Perrysville; Kinsey Morgan, Butler; Harry DeLaney, 494 Cline avenue; Paul Schwert, Sandusky township;

Charles Tarbert, Weller township; Mrs. Thelma Hartman, 611 Arlington avenue; Bert Walters, Plymouth; George Hersheiser, Plymouth; Mrs. Dean Rex, 638 Arlington avenue; George A. Wilson, 261 South Franklin avenue; Justine C. Sterkel, 14 Sturges avenue; Frank Reed, 43 Parker street, and S. E. Bell, Mifflin township.

REUNITED AFTER 20 YEARS

PORTLAND, Ore.—(U.P.)—J. O. Allen, Albany, Ga., superintendent of schools, enjoyed a reunion with his brother, M. J. Allen, after a 20-year separation, in a recent visit here. They parted in North Carolina in 1922.

HOMEMAKERS' PROGRAM SET

Recreational Activities to Be Held as Part of Civic Defense Project.

Mansfield homemakers will be able to keep physically fit this summer through a special program of recreation now being set up by the women's committee of the Civilian Defense education and recreation division.

Mrs. Norma Miklich, program director at the Y.W.C.A., heads the committee as chairman and the group includes Miss Eleanor Bond, Girl Scout executive secretary; Mrs. Albert Yunker, Mrs. J. W. Ingraham, Mrs. Howard Heston and Miss Lois Baughman.

The program will start in June according to present plans and will include swimming, tennis, volleyball, badminton, deck tennis and other forms of inexpensive recreation. Instruction will be on a volunteer basis.

WOMAN WANTS IN MARINE CORPS

SALINAS, Cal. — (U.P.) — Staff Sgt. Edward J. Caesar, Marine corps recruiting officer, rejected five applicants recently.

A young woman drove up to the recruiting station and brought with her four police dogs. She had a newspaper clipping telling of an eastern radio station that is using such dogs to guard the transmitting tower, releasing a dozen men for other duties.

She applied for enlistment with her dogs.

The sergeant pointed out that only unmarried males, 17 to 30, may enlist. "And definitely no dogs," said Sgt. Caesar as he thanked her for the offer.

Alaska gets its name from a corruption of the native word meaning "The Great Land."

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM THE FOUNDER OF THE J. C. PENNEY COMPANY:

A TREMENDOUS TASK LIES AHEAD OF US!

Today America is at war. Now, in wartime, because of the tremendous job ahead of us, we must learn again to work hard and to live simply — to put into the preserving of America what we once put into the building of it — to return to the old ways of Thrift and Savings that were the general rule at the beginning of this century.

We feel that the Penney Company is peculiarly well equipped to make a substantial contribution toward the Thrift and Savings of the nation—because the Penney Company knows from long experience what thrift is all about.

Thrift is nothing new to the Penney Company — it is our stock in trade. When the Penney business was founded, in 1902, hard work, and spartan living were the general rule. Our first little store in Kemmerer, Wyoming was dedicated to Thrift, and all through the years, as our business has grown, Thrift has continued to be our guiding principle.

THRIFT AND SAVINGS ARE A BIG PART OF THE JOB

The Penney Co.'s practice of Thrift and Savings is evidenced in everything we do: We buy for cash and sell for cash; we make no deliveries; we eliminate all costly frills and extravagances; we operate on an extremely small margin of profit per transaction; we buy at the source in the most economical quantities; we save at every turn! All this means that now when Thrift and Savings mean more than ever, it will pay you, it will save precious dollars for you, always to shop first at Penney's.

WE REDEDICATE OURSELVES, TODAY, ON OUR 40th ANNIVERSARY, TO THE SERVICE OF AMERICA

We rededicate ourselves to Thrift and Savings. We rededicate our 1600 stores, which now stretch from coast to coast, to the great job of helping American families to continue to live well for less.

THE PENNEY WAY IS THE THRIFTY WAY—THE THRIFTY WAY IS THE AMERICAN WAY!

J. C. Penney

With Conditions As They Are,

Some Merchants Ask:

WHY ADVERTISE

The best answer to this question is found in a letter from The Kroehler Mfg. Co. of Naperville, Ill., to merchants who sell their furniture products. What was written is vital and important to every Mansfield Merchant and is passed on for serious consideration for everyone is faced with the same fundamental problem.

"Some dealers have raised the question of why we are continuing our advertising this winter, when our factories are already working at peak capacity and we cannot adequately service our dealers. This is a fair question and also one which many stores may be asking themselves about their own business.

All of us know it takes years of concentrated effort and a large investment in advertising to build a reputation and acceptance for a product or a store. As a matter of fact, the money already invested in advertising KROEHLER is to a large extent, we believe, responsible for the tremendous demand at the present time. This investment must be protected, by retailer and manufacturer. People soon forget, and their memories must constantly be kept fresh. Once advertising stops for a period of even a few months, redoubled effort will be required later to make up the lost momentum.

This then, is why we think it is good business to protect our mutual interest in the millions of dollars already invested in advertising KROEHLER, by running an aggressive campaign this winter, despite current conditions. This too, is why we recommend that you also continue your own local advertising. Only in this way will you set your store up as a leader in style and value. Build prestige for your store, identify yourself with national names that live and grow."

As Mansfielders Paraded Easter Finery, Participated In Annual Egg Hunt

Easter, an important day for the kiddies as well as for grown-ups, brought a thrill to 300 boys and girls who participated in the annual egg hunt Sunday afternoon in Middle park. The picture at the top left shows a few of hundreds of persons who witnessed the hunt. It was a colorful Easter parade yesterday, too, despite the brief afternoon shower. In the top right photo, Miss Euretabell Smith, left, Michael Niznik, Miss Margaret Murphy display their new spring outfits on North Man street. Two more Easter paraders, Miss Elizabeth Robson, left and Miss Kay Damoff, are pictured in the lower left photo. A group of winners in the egg hunt are pictured at the right. The "rabbit" is Carol Marie Gutterman, who handed out the prizes. Below, little Shirley Jean Dilger searches in the leaves and comes out with an egg.

IT'S SAME WAR, BUT 2 MAJOR CAPITALS VASTLY DIFFERENT

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Washington is fighting the same war as London but it's hard to tell by a superficial look at the two capitals.

A person who has seen London throughout most of the war, can hardly believe, after a hasty look around, that Washington is in it, too.

Much of the difference, of course, is due to the fact that the actual fighting is a long way from Washington. But it is not merely a matter of bomb damage so evident in London and absent here. Barbed-wire entanglements and sandbags are entirely missing here. So are the street-level air-raid shelters and the trenches in the parks, the air-raid shelter signs and the black-out.

Then there is the rationing. Three pats of butter at breakfast is something you can have in Washington, each bigger than the one pat you get in Britain. The same liberality governs the entire menu.

London hasn't seen a fresh grapefruit for over a year, or a banana, either, and there you are lucky if you get two or three eggs a month. In Washington one could have that many or more eggs in a day.

One large steak in Washington would amount to more than a Londoner's weekly meat ration. The milk ration for an adult in Britain is two pints a week.

When war broke out London promptly evacuated virtually all school children. Many government offices were transferred to provincial towns and numerous shipping, trading and financial companies followed.

There has always been plenty of room in London hotels, apartments and dwellings. Not so Washington. Instead, scores of thousands of persons have swarmed to the national Capital until living accommodations are hardly to be had.

An afternoon paper here publishes 32 to 54 pages. In London most standard-sized papers are four to six pages.

Compared with London, Washington streets seemed jammed with automobiles. Apparently the tire shortage and gasoline stringency hasn't caught up with motoring in the District of Columbia.

SET RITES FOR OHIO INVENTOR

ELYRIA — (U.P.) — Funeral service will be held in St. Andrew's Episcopal church Wednesday for George Cushing Worthington, 73, retired industrialist and inventor, who died Saturday night in Middletown, Conn.

He founded the Worthington Ball company in Elyria and served as president before retiring in 1927. He was a director at time of his death.

He invented several bicycle appliances and household utensils and designed and manufactured golf balls. He also was recognized as the co-inventor of the trolley car controller.

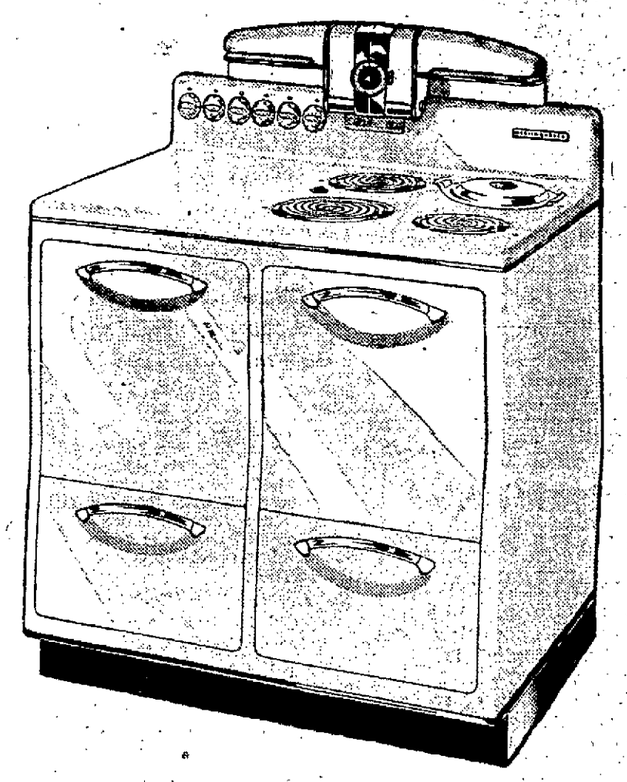
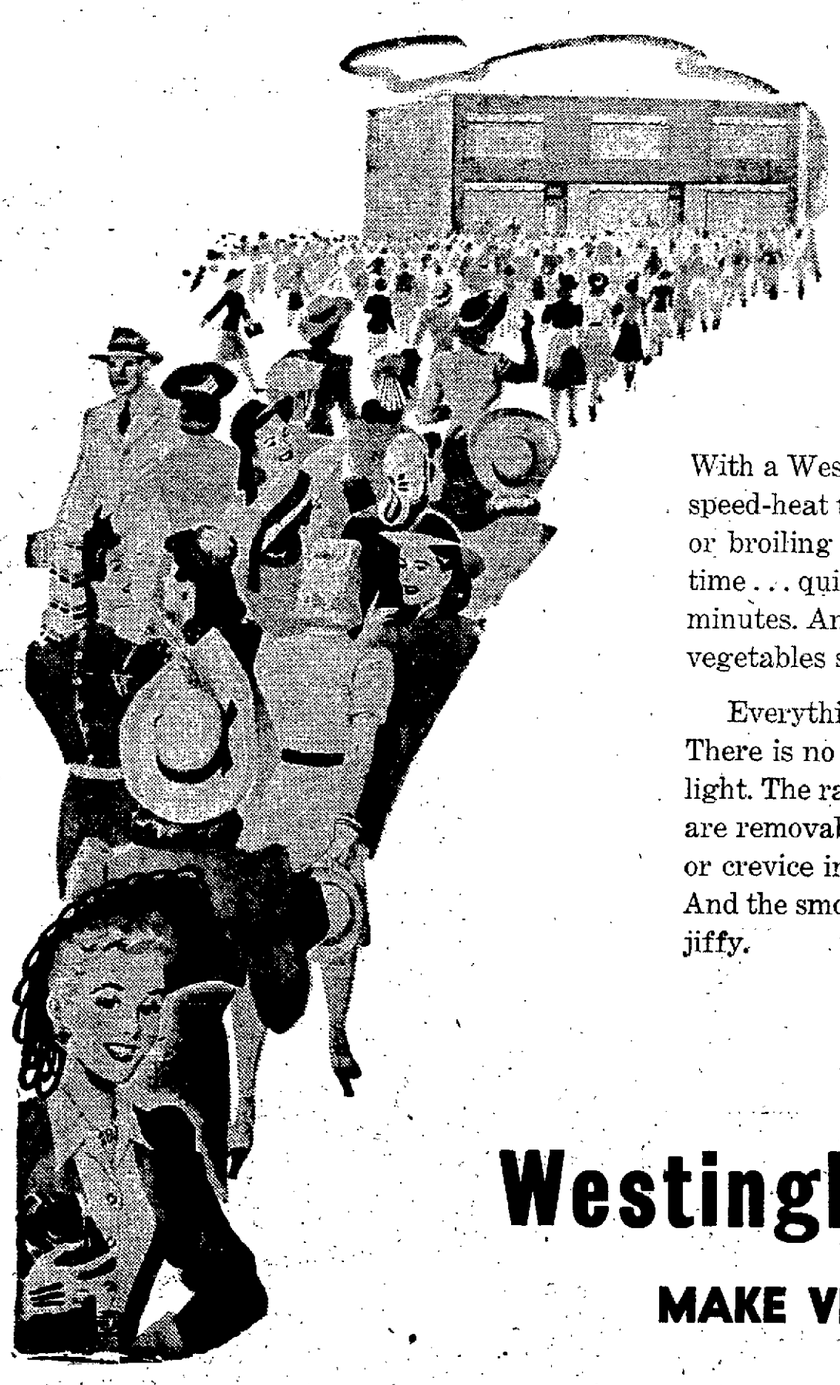
Nationally Famous Lecturer and Home Economist Who Will Preside At The Mansfield News-Journal Cooking School

Plan Now To Attend The Free All-Electric

COOKING SCHOOL

STARTING TOMORROW AT 9:00 A. M. AT THE OHIO THEATER





For perfect health, everyone needs his daily quota of vitamins and minerals. Don't miss this opportunity to see a demonstration of the modern, scientific, protective cooking method that guards against needless loss of vital food values. You'll get up-to-the-minute facts, too, about the important part nutrition is playing in our National Defense Program and what YOU can do about it right in your own home.

With a Westinghouse Electric Range you can depend upon the intense speed-heat to quickly do every cooking task. Whether it's roasting, baking or broiling the big, roomy *True-Temp oven gives excellent results every time . . . quickly. This big roomy oven preheats to 375 degrees in about 8 minutes. And the fast "High" heat of 5-speed surface Corox Units starts vegetables steaming in five minutes or less.

Everything stays cleaner, too, when you switch to electric cooking. There is no smoke, soot or grime from electric heat. It's clean as electric light. The range is easy to keep clean. One-piece pans under Corox Units are removable for washing at the sink. There's not a dirt-catching crack or crevice in the one-piece, acid-resisting porcelain top and back panel. And the smooth porcelain finish of the True-Temp Oven wipes clean in a jiffy.

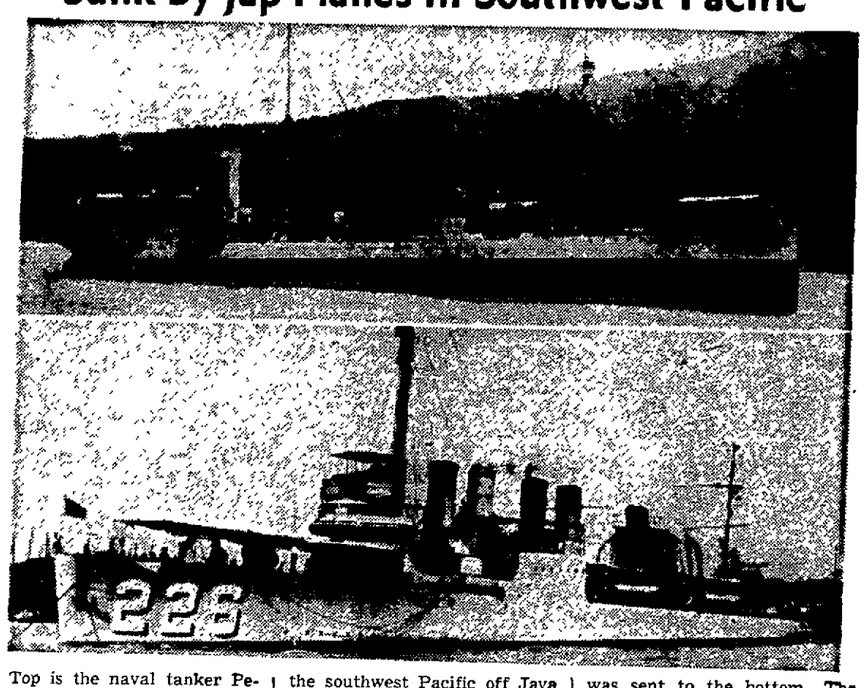
Sunk By Jap Planes In Southwest Pacific



Top is the naval tanker Pecos, and bottom, is the destroyer Peary, both reported sunk in the southwest Pacific off Java by Jap planes. The Pecos was carrying survivors of the aircraft tender Langley when it was sent to the bottom. The navy announcement declared 700 lives were lost on the three ships.

We Have a War to Win

The payment of this year's income tax has brought home the realization that modern warfare costs a great deal of money.

The coming months, yes, and years, will bring an increasing demonstration of that fact.

If you have invested considerable sums on funerals in normal times and now feel that such expense should be curtailed, you will find us considerately helpful. We realize that America's first job is to win this war.

Horse and Buggy Revival Spurred By Tire Shortage

NEW CITY, N. J.—(INS)—After an absence of at least 25 years, the horse-and-buggy this spring is enjoying a comeback in Rockland county, New York.

With the advent of warmer weather and the desire of automobilists to conserve tires and gasoline dozens of horse drawn vehicles—phaetons, gigs and plainer types of carriages that have been idling in barns are on the road again.

In front of roadside restaurants it is not unusual nowadays to see three or four horse-and-buggies tied up, while the drivers are eating inside. Hitching posts have long since been removed, but several restaurant owners once again are thinking of installing a few. Meanwhile, horses are tied up to the nearest small tree about the restaurant properly.

Many persons have taken to bicycling and frequently are seen racing the carriages as they did many years ago.

One filling station proprietor in nearby Nanuet expressed the opinion that the new buggy trade is more than just a passing fancy. In fact, he is thinking of offering hay and grain for sale in addition to gasoline and oil.

When thieves went through the house of Police Inspector A. L. Hopkins in Hongkong, they took not only silver ornaments but the inspector's medals as well.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — A conscientious objector is a quaint bird. Several attempts have been made to define him.

The one usually accepted is a "member of a well recognized sect which has religious or other scruples against engaging in war in any form."

Gen. Johnson.

It won't do. There are too many different kinds of "konshies." They start with those who will do anything to help their country in war except to pull the trigger of a gun aimed an enemy.

At the other end of the scale are those who wouldn't stick a pole in the ground if they thought it would be used to grow a stalk of corn to feed a soldier.

From another angle there really are some who belong to very old religious pacifist sects (for there are such organizations) and others who are "konshies" in their own right and don't belong to any sect at all.

These latter the law does not protect, but, as a matter of policy, the government does not treat them exactly as draft dodgers. Just the same, their lot is not a happy one. They are all in a kind of "protective custody."

The government is right in not making martyrs out of any of them, but, with a few exceptions, they are a lousy lot. They accept the protection of their government and their neighbors and the glory and privilege of American citizenship for years on end but when the time comes to pay something on account for it, their conscience won't let them.

If it were a tax they had to pay (like all the rest of us), we would have no scruples about selling their property and paying it for them. But, if it is military duty they owe for benefits received, about all we do is to put them in camp, feed and house them and take such service as fighting forest fires and clearing underbrush as they are willing stintingly to give.

They can't all be condemned. There are some sects of Amish, who have some of the same practices as Quakers. They are among our best citizens in everything but this.

But this happens to be one of the very fundamental duties of citizenship. Without its general performance, no nation could have an independent existence. This has been proved over and over again since the world began. Perhaps it can be kept at a minimum and so be barely tolerated. But it cannot be encouraged and its treatment must be as harsh as possible this side of martyrdom.

The experience of Sergeant York and Gary Cooper's excellent movie is being held up as a shining example. But there was only one York and Lew Ayres' "conscientious" refusal to serve can hardly be mentioned in the same breath.

Ayres has been richly rewarded by this country. His recent discovery of his conscientious scruples may be perfectly sincere but they have a distinct odor of carefully planned and timed publicity. His immediate future course will be well worth watching.

Having had a close experience with this thorny problem 25 years ago, it may seem more important to me than it really is. But the present scramble of various pressure groups to serve at home rather than with the colors, indicates a distinct decline in the determination and unswerving purpose of this country in time of war."

ORDERS PROBE OF U. S. ARMY BUILDING COSTS

House Group to Extend Study of Construction Costs Throughout Country.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The house military affairs committee today ordered a general investigation of army construction costs throughout the country.

Decision to extend drastically the scope of the study was made as a result of an investigator's report of asserted "excessive" costs at the huge shell loading plant at Minden, La.

"We have decided to find out once and for all if the sort of practices turned up at that plant are general in all army work," said Rep. Thomason (D) Tex., chairman of the subcommittee which is handling the matter.

Thomason said his committee will first complete its study of the Louisiana ordnance plant, and then will go into other similar plants.

The group prepared, to reassemble tomorrow to hear further evidence from its investigator, Gordon K. Miller, who spent a month at the $27,000,000 Louisiana plant.

Later in the week, Thomason said, officials of the Silas Mason Co., of New York, named as the contractor in the case, will be called. They are to be followed by army quartermaster and engineer officers.

In his report, Miller declared that building costs at the Minden plants were "excessive," asserting that the per unit price of some temporary frame buildings there ran about as high as the cost of erecting the supreme court building and other marbled structures in Washington.

He also produced reports and records raising a question as to whether many of these buildings could withstand wind pressure and whether proper safety precautions had been taken against possible fires or explosions caused by electricity.

Climaxing the report, he asserted that the army had rented a truck for $850 a month which had been purchased previously by one of the company officials for $4500. He said that already the government had paid more than $9,000 in rentals for the vehicle, or twice what it cost.

The quest for automobile tires must be getting more desperate. Dale Hammond, Ashland county sheriff, said today that a motorist removed the tire from one of two automobiles figuring in a collision on U. S. Route 42 early today and had cached it in a nearby field to pick up later. The tire was found, however, by authorities investigating the accident and put back on the auto.

Faced with the job of transporting seven Richland county prisoners to Columbus to begin terms in the Ohio penitentiary, Sheriff Frank E Robinson had to call on the county engineer's station wagon again today. One of the sheriff's cars was taken along with the wagon to accommodate the prisoners and the officers to guard them. In the group scheduled to begin terms in the pen were Willis Harris, Charles Preston, Francis Lane, Lep Pitroff, Raymond J. Brown, Leland B. Strome and Benny Passafiume.

Mansfielders out early yesterday morning for their Easter parade saw another parade passing through the city—a two-mile chain of army trucks and motorized units moving north on U. S. Route 42. More than 150 trucks and other units were included in the olive drab and khaki line which threaded through city streets en route to a northern station. Many drivers waved back Easter greetings to the many persons enjoying their early-morning promenade.

PROPOSAL TO BE PRESENTED SENATE TODAY

Would Put 2 Per Cent Limit on All Contracts Over $50,000,000.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Senator McNary of Oregon, the minority leader, swung powerful Republican support today behind senatorial efforts to write drastic limitations on war profits into a $19,212,000,000 military appropriations bill.

Declaring he would support any workable scheme to cut off excessive profits in military production plants, McNary said he was confident other Republicans in the senate felt the same way.

Special significance was attached to McNary's statement of the minority viewpoint, since a profit limitation proposal approved Saturday by the appropriations committee was scheduled to be presented to the senate today in such a way that a two-thirds vote might be necessary to attach it to the pending military bill.

Striking down a flat 6 per cent limitation previously approved by the house, the senate committee voted to authorize the presentation of a comprehensive amendment under which industry would be allowed profits ranging from 10 per cent on the first $100,000 of war contracts down to 2 per cent on all above $50,000,000.

While the house provision was limited solely to future contracts to be made on funds provided within the bill, the senate committee decided to broaden the proposal to include all war orders, past, present and future, except those on which the government already had made final payments.

Likewise, Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said he thought the amendment was satisfactory, although Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) and Overton (D-La) made known their intention of offering a substitute, which the committee rejected Saturday by an 8 to 8 tie vote.

The substitute proposal would leave the responsibility of fixing final profits with the war and navy departments and the maritime commission, which would be authorized to renegotiate contracts on which they found excessive profits were being made or excessive costs charged.

Once the profit limitation feature is settled, the senate is expected to give speedy approval to the huge appropriations bill, carrying $17,434,000,000 for the army and $1,634,000,000 for the navy in addition to minor appropriations for other departments.

PELLEY AWAITS JURY ACTION

Silver Shirts' Chief Held In Jail When Unable To Post Bond.

(By Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS — Unable to furnish bond, William Dudley Pelley, chief of the Silver Shirts, remained in the Marion county jail today awaiting grand jury action on an affidavit charging him with sedition in connection with articles published in his magazine "The Galilean."

The silver-goateed publisher of anti-semitic magazines said he would plead innocent to any indictments brought against him.

Pelley was unable to obtain his freedom last night although U. S. Marshal Julius Wichser allowed him several hours to post a $15,000 bond before ordering him to jail. Pelley was brought here yesterday from the east after his arrest Saturday in Darien, Conn.

District Attorney B. Howard Caughran, who prepared the complaint against Pelley under the 1917 espionage act, said he had not decided whether to call a special grand jury or to submit it to the regular session in June.

Pelley, whose organization was charged with being Fascist in Dies committee hearings, has suspended publication of both "The Galilean" and the "Roll Call" which he had been printing at Noblesville, Ind.

He told reporters he had published nothing that some columnists and many other persons had not said. He said he had asserted Hitler's program was "okey for Germany," and that he knew conditions in Germany before Hitler took over.

FACE CHARGES

Youths, Held in Stock Thefts, Named in Detainers.

Grand larceny charges were filed in Mansfield yesterday against Virgil Parks, 20, and a 17-year-old youth who are held at Mt. Gilead in connection with the theft of livestock from farms in Richland and Morrow counties. Both youths are from the Steam Corners community in Morrow county.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson sent the warrants to Morrow county officials as detainers in the event no charges are brought against the pair at Mt. Gilead. The warrants were filed here by Prosecutor Harold Lutz.

Although Sheriff Robinson said the youths confessed the theft of sheep and calves from a number of Richland county farms in the past two months, the warrants accuse them only of stealing sheep valued at $85 from the L. L. Rinehart farm in Sandusky township.

Richland county authorities said Saturday they had not learned whether Sheriff Oscar George of Morrow county, intends to prosecute the youths there or release them to Richland county.

LAWYER DIES AT WILLARD

William G. Burwell, 86, Succumbs At Willard Hospital.

WILLARD — William G. Burwell, 86, attorney and insurance agent, died today at 10 a. m. at Willard Municipal hospital 10 days after he was found ill on the walk in front of his Keefer street home. He had been in failing health for several months.

Mr. Burwell was born in Willard and resided here the greater part of his life. Survivors are his widow, Gertrude May Burwell of Mansfield; a daughter, Lena; and two sons, Minor E., of Willard and George Burwell of Greenwich.

The body was removed to the Fink funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

EX-TEACHER DIES

Mrs. Lorene Benton, 73, Former Shiloh Resident, Succumbs.

SHILOH—Mrs. Lorene Koerber Benton, 73, former Shiloh school teacher, but for more than 20 years a resident of Columbus, died there Sunday morning, it was learned here today.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Ed McDowell; five grandchildren and one great grandchild, and five sisters, Mrs. Ida McBride, Mrs. George W. Shafer and Mrs. O. T. Dickerson, all of Shiloh, and Mrs. C. P. Barnes and Miss Avis Koerber, Willoughby.

After funeral services at the Lindenbolt funeral home in Columbus at 8 p. m. Tuesday, the body will be brought here for services at the McQuate funeral home at 1 p. m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Shiloh cemetery.

PREDICTS NO CROPS TO SPOIL THIS YEAR FOR WANT OF LABOR

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—No Ohio crop will spoil this year for want of men to harvest it, despite a labor shortage compelling farmers to make raw recruits efficient hands in "three easy lessons," an employment official said today.

Wade Hammond, state director of the U. S. employment service, said his organization would "meet the demand for farm labor required under increased production quotas by tapping every available source of manpower and calling in the women where they can help."

"We can't supply all-round farmers such as in previous years," he declared. "But farmers themselves are one of the most adaptable groups and are able to make satisfactory help out of the men we send them in three easy lessons."

Hammond commented that some of the high school and college students, the part-time workers and men from the cities may have to be told "which side a cow is milked from, but the farmers are up to the teaching job."

Of the 262,000 Buckeye farmers queried on labor requirements this season, 19,672 have replied that they will need one to four men to help plant or harvest crops to feed the Allied nations, Hammond reported.

While this preliminary report is illuminating and gives us advance warning of the size of the task before us, it also serves as a challenge to the people of Ohio," he asserted. "The farmers of Ohio have accepted the responsibility for increasing their production as a part of the food-for-victory campaign."

ISSUES REPORT

State Chamber to Reveal Data on Richland Tax Survey.

Recommendations based on a tax survey completed recently in Mansfield by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce research department will be submitted at a meeting of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce tax committee and city officials at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

L. B. Hamilton, chairman of the tax committee, said a member of the state research department will be here to discuss the recommendations with the Mansfield group.

Members of the Richland county tax committee of the district council also have been asked to attend the meeting, Hamilton said.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce and its units throughout the state are working to effect economies in state and local government to help balance the increasing federal taxes to finance the war.

WIDOW DIES AT MILLERSBURG

Mrs. Harriet Ducommun, 72, Succumbs After Long Illness.

MILLERSBURG—Mrs. Harriet Ducommun, 72, widow of L. A. Ducommun, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Heskett Kuhns, after a lingering illness.

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Hoskett Koons, Millersburg; and Mrs. Elmo Goetz of New Bedford; two sons, Ivan Ducommun, of Akron; and Dwight, of Canton; six sisters, one brother, and four grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Elliott funeral home, where services will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday, in charge of Rev. Robert Dieterich, pastor of the Millersburg Methodist church, of which she was a member. Burial will be in Millersburg cemetery.

ILLNESS FATAL

Railroad Employe Succumbs at Willard Hospital.

WILLARD — Wilbur Essley of Garrett, Ind., an employe in the shops of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, died this morning at the Willard Municipal hospital after a brief illness.

Hospital authorities said they believed death was due to coronary thrombosis. Mr. Essley went to work in Willard last Wednesday.

He is survived by his widow who lives at Garrett. The body is being shipped there for funeral services.

CHIEF CELEBRATES

SHELBY — Police Chief Leroy Coffey celebrated his 40th birthday anniversary Sunday. A group of relatives and friends gathered at the home during the day.

Davey Calls On Ohioans To Trust Nation's Leaders

KENT—(INS)—Once a critic of the national administration, former Gov. Martin L. Davey today appealed to fellow Ohioans to trust the nation's leaders in the present crisis and to give them unstinted moral support.

"In these dark hours," said Davey, "criticism and fear are the allies of our enemies. The solemn weight of the centuries rests on the overburdened shoulders of our leaders, here and abroad.

"The fate of man's struggle for the blessing of freedom and civilization is in their hands. We must trust them. But trust is not enough. We have got to give them a degree and quality of moral support that will buttress their leadership against all adversity until a great and sublime victory is won."

Davey said it is easy to applaud with enthusiasm when our armed forces are winning battles, but "times like these call for a kind of courage that will not flinch or waver, when we are beset by adversities."

DIES AT HOME

Frocks For Duration Memorable

By SUSAN BARDEN
(INS) Illustrated News Writer)

While there are still stocks on hand of brilliant colored wools and silks, while there are still paillettes and imported trimmings, a famous designing team, Sophie of the Salon Moderne and Emmett Joyce, created a collection of clothes to be worn and cherished for the duration.

The clothes in this fashion show were practical, easy, non-gadgety, and at the same time memorable. They are the type things which will form the framework of a wardrobe for years to come.

One of the most outstanding new styles shown was the waistline jacket. It is shorter than a basque, longer than a bolero and hugs the body from shoulder to waist, touching the edge of the belt on the dress or shirt beneath. It has a young and youthifying line.

Formals Romantic, Dramatic

Other important trends were displayed, including dramatic dinner dresses and romantic bouffant evening dresses, which these designers firmly believe women will go on wearing this year.

The three costumes pictured above are typical examples of these smart and well made clothes.

The daytime dress is a waistline jacket suit made of navy wool with refreshing crisp lingerie touches at neck and cuffs. Diamond shaped tucking on the hips releases pleats in the skirt making it comfortably wide.

The dramatic black crepe dinner dress features the slim silhouette. It has a plunging V decolletage and cuffed bracelet length sleeves. The slinky skirt has an enormous black faille taffeta bow at the side back of the skirt with streamers descending to the floor.

The third dress is a dreamy creation for formal occasions. It is made of white eyelet organdie. The off-the shoulder decolletage is modestly complemented with long full sleeves. The immense skirt is untrimmed except for the full blown roses dripping from the youthful sash and covering the pocket.

GADGET LINE

Gutzon Borglum chiseled the faces of Washington, Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt and Lincoln on Rushmore Mountain, and now an ingenious designer of costume jewelry has made a replica of that cliff. Another tricky pin shows four flying cupids in an all-out flight for the Allies. Each cupid is trailing one of the letters, A-B-C-D.

CHARITY CLUB.

Mrs. Edward Loughridge, Woodland road, will be hostess to the Charity club for the meeting Tuesday morning. Members please note change of place.

MRS. BENNINGHOFF TO REVIEW NOVEL

"The Moon Is Down," By John Steinbeck, Will Be Clevelander's Subject for Program Here On April 13.

"THE Moon Is Down," John Steinbeck's first novel since "Grapes of Wrath," will be reviewed by Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff of Cleveland in the Park Avenue Baptist church at 8 p. m. on Monday, April 13. Tickets can be purchased from members of the Women's Association of the First Congregational church, sponsors of the program.

Arrangements have been made for this review to be presented in the evening so that persons unable to attend previous afternoon programs by Mrs. Benninghoff will have the opportunity to hear her on this occasion.

Book-of-the-Month club selection for April, "The Moon Is Down" has been described by R. L. Duffus of the New York Times as being "so strong, so simple, so true, so dramatic in its values that its present form is obviously only one of its phases." He believes that "It is as plainly destined for the stage as was 'Of Mice and Men.' Mr. Steinbeck very carefully composes the acting directions for his drama of a little town (supposedly Norwegian) under Nazi rule."

Dorothy Canfield, reviewer for the Book-of-the-Month club, says that "Steinbeck, with his first scene, transports you, heart and soul and body, into the plain little rural Norwegian town (or Belgian, or Dutch, or Czech, for the story could happen anywhere in any civilized country inhabited by free men and women). . . . Not only your heart is moved to the depths. Your mind, too, grows greater to take in a wider conception of the meaning of the situation into which all the peoples of the globe have been plunged."

Marie Gatton, Charles Speaks Wed On April 4

Mrs. Bernice Gatton of this city is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Marie Gatton of Mt. Vernon, to Corp. Charles D. Speaks of Indiantown Gap, Pa., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Speaks of Mt. Vernon. The ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. Hugh Wyat in Mt. Vernon on April 4 at 4 p. m.

For her wedding the bride wore a beige wool tailored suit with blue accessories and a shoulder corsage of pink roses and blue sweet peas. Miss Virginia Hill, who served as maid-of-honor, wore a blue street length frock with beige and rust accessories. Her corsage was of blue sweet peas. Pvt. Donald Speaks, brother of the bridegroom, served as the best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Mrs. Speaks will make her home in Mt. Vernon and Corp. Speaks will return to camp.

War Bride Glad She Didn't Hesitate

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"The article in your column a few days ago on the subject of war brides hit the nail on the head. And we thank you for taking our side.

"Apparently there is no time for a girl to be a bride which suits all parties unconcerned. Either war time is a bad time to marry or a depression isn't a good time to marry, or one is too young or too old—something unfavorable always is suggested. Absolute security in this world is never attained. We can only grasp happiness as we see it float by like driftwood on the tide."

The foregoing was written to me by a girl who, in spite of parental opposition, the suggestion of friends that it was a bad time to marry her soldier boy and make a go of her married life, had the courage to do what her heart suggested. Her acquaintance with this boy was no casual blind-date affair, whipped up by the fanfare of war.

This couple had known each other for more than a year before the war started. They had become engaged but decided not to marry until they had enough for the little home they had in mind. It would take $2,000 to make that old house modern and livable, and both were saving toward this goal.

The boy was studying architecture, the girl is a cashier. But when the boy was drafted, went to camp to prepare to be a soldier, they didn't hesitate a moment. Without any of the happy frills of matrimony — trousseau, reception, even a wedding cake—they went to the clergyman and were married.

Then they came home and told their families. This girl is going to have a baby, and she's going to keep her job as long as it's possible and hopes they'll take her back after the stork has made its visit. She's extremely happy, hasn't a moment's regret. You see she was absolutely convinced that she's really and truly in love with her man. There was no make-believe about it, and she took her chances on a few weeks of happines with the man of her heart rather than face a possibly blank future without him.

And there was this postscript to her letter, She wrote:

"When I was a very little girl, there was an old, old lady in our town. A ghostly sort of person and it was understood among her friends that when her lover went off to war she did the prudent thing and didn't marry him. The lover never came back, and the old lady continued to live on in her loneliness. Everyone was kind to Miss Nelly, but she was a pitiful object, and perhaps my decision to marry Jim and take the consequences was due to remembering Miss Nelly. And I remembered what being too prudence could do to a woman's life. I made my decision and I'm happy that I made it."

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, April 7

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

The astral auguries for this day are rather conflicting and complicated, indicating that sagacity, vigilance, persistency and good grace may turn very definite obstacles, oppositions and duplicity into prolific and profitable channels. These sound qualities should be supported by quickened intuitions, imagination and subtle leadings, which are to be found dependable and wise. Antagonism may come from elders, strangers or regular business associates.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a year of splendid progress and opportunity, but such must be safeguarded by finesse, diplomacy, keen understanding as well as intuition and inner guidance. The psychic and intellectual qualities are under great stimuli, to be used with sagacity and sound logic. Antagonism from relatives, elders or strangers should be shrewdly placated.

A child born on this day may be endowed with splendid talents for success and high station in life, although this be beset by treachery or antagonism.

Add a hard-cooked egg, chopped, and some chopped pimientos to a can of cream of mushroom soup. Heat and serve as a sauce for veal, chicken or pork loaf.

To prevent clothing, delicate lingerie and hose from snagging on a wicker clothes basket, line the basket with a thin cloth.

If a woolen garment becomes soaked by rain, let it hang in a room of moderate temperature until perfectly dry and then press.

Stale doughnuts may be cut in halves, lightly spread with butter, strained honey and a little cinnamon, then toasted.

Apricots, spread with mayonnaise and broiled until glazed, make grand side partners for fried chicken.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

By MARIAN MARTIN.

Do you want to know the fashion secret of women who look slimmer than they are? It's the simple frock with a soft bodice, and an extra-slimming skirt and she offers Pattern 9029 as an example. The bodice has fullness released below the yokes by gathers or darts, and the skirt is very slenderizing with its four panels in the front. The back is cut in two sections only for quick sewing.

Pattern 9029 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards 35-inch fabric.

Send 15 cents (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

Tots Need More Sleep In War Time

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

For years, in this column, I have urged parents to hold the child rigidly to the afternoon nap until he enters school. Now with the added nervous strain incident to war, the tot needs the afternoon nap all the more. So does his mother. Some young school children should have a short nap after school. It would be better still if the school would provide an opportunity for a nap.

However, some parents have gotten so jittery themselves and ill-controlled, have grown so nervous over their failure with the nap, and so weak in their ability to control the child and win his co-operation, that they might as well give it up and call it a failure. These few mothers might, however, effect a quiet afternoon period for the youngster, reading to him or guiding him in calm amusement with no other children in, for a few hours a day.

Mothers with considerable self-control should proceed as follows. Be home always at the child's regular nap time till the good habit is well established. Let everything else go. Center on this problem. Follow the clock to the minute every single day at nap time. Set this clock to ring at the end of an hour, hour and a half, or two hours, as you see fit, and let the child get up then whether he has slept or not.

Give him no books nor playthings, except something, perhaps, to cuddle. As you prepare him for bed, tell him he must not get up till the clock rings. Say nothing about sleep, merely that he must not get up or sit up. Remind him of this regulation, if necessary, as you tuck him in. Don't tell him he must not call, talk or sing, but tell him that you will not come to him to do anything for him. Warn him that you will spank him if he gets up before the bell rings. Then keep your word.

Necessary Discipline.

Be in the hall or adjoining room until he goes to sleep, if he is likely to get up. After you have tucked him in with quiet affection, go outside his room with door ajar so you can see him but he cannot see you. The moment he rises from a horizontal position go to him, spank him, saying NO just once in moderate tone. Tuck him in again tenderly and take position as before. Let him cry or call as he likes; merely be deaf to that. Continue this treatment until he is "cured."

He may rise several times and need spanking several times in one afternoon. He may, indeed, continue to hold out for several afternons. But if you have your mind made up and will follow this plan to the letter the problem will be solved permanently.

Before beginning this training figure out the cost to you and him and how well you are fitted to see it through. It is not fair to you or child to go at this half-heartedly and then give it up as a failure. Once the training is accomplished see what it will mean for the youngster's health and happiness and for yours.

My special bulletins on sleep problems may be had without cost to you by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it; also a chart giving desirable hours of sleep at the various ages.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

REVERSE THE PROCEDURE

One of the most unsatisfactory combinations from which to make a standard lead is that headed by a queen and jack, dropping down to some low card. If you lead the queen, and the declarer has the king in dummy and ace in his own hand, or vice versa, with the 10 and nine on his side, you build him a marked finesse against your jack. He will take the first trick in his own hand, and then finesse. If, however, you lead the jack, he probably will win it in the dummy and then finesse against your partner's "marked queen," enabling yours to win. Bear in mind, though, that such a lead may do more harm than good, in some circumstances, by fooling your partner, too.

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Bidding like that occurred on this deal at two duplicate tables. The main difference was that on his third turn South rebid clubs, then North rebid diamonds, whereupon South called No Trumps. In each case, however, West decided not to lead into South's clubs, so selected a spade. One picked the Q and the other the J.

Where the Q was led, South saw a marked finesse against West's J, so took that trick with his K. He finessed the diamond J to the K, and East returned the heart Q. Seeing another finesse set up for him against East's heart J, he won this with dummy's K, then finessed the club J to West's Q. Back came the club 10 to the A. The K also was cashed, the spade 9 finessed, 2 sent to the A dropping the J, the 10 cashed, also the diamond A and Q, then the heart 10 was finessed and the A made the final trick, producing five-odd.

At the other table, the spade J lead made South place East with the Q, so won with dummy's A. He lost the club finesse, took the returned 10, lost the diamond finesse, and East returned the heart J. This marking West with the Q, he took it with his A, cashed the club K, finessed the heart 8 and was peeved when East bobbed up with the Q. The diamond 9 brought tricks with the Q and A and South then decided to go for the extra trick by winning the marked spade finesse. When West won the 9 with the Q, he also scored the club 8 and 7, setting the contract two tricks. The same gag had worked twice.

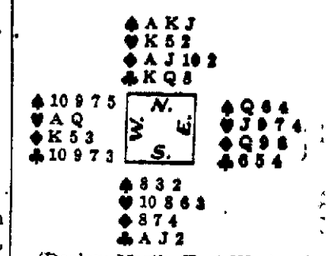
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

Playing for 3-No Trumps, if South wins a club, finesses diamonds to the Q, takes the returned club, finesses diamonds again, cashes two more diamonds East discarding a heart, then leads a heart to the 10 and Q, takes the next club, tries to throw East in with the heart K, but West wins, and scores his fourth club, dummy discarding his last heart, why should East know that he must discard his heart J?

Reveille Rolls Appear on Your Army Day Menus

Who doesn't thrill to the rhythm of marching feet, the roll of drums, the heart-warming sight of the stars and stripes? And what American's heart won't swell with pride tomorrow on Army Day when thousands of uniformed men and women parade through cities and towns, displaying the "Spirit of '42"

Originated in 1927, Army Day is fast becoming a real U. S. tradition. And this year, more than ever before, it assumes a much greater importance. It will be a day when all patriotic citizens give their whole-hearted approval to America's all-out war efforts.

Remembering the millions of boys in army camps, learning to bear arms in defense of democracy, and other millions working night and day in factories, speeding up production of defense weapons, let's make Army day a day to be remembered . . . start the day right with tempting food. Our suggestion is Reveille Rolls. They'll add just the right trimming to a patriotic breakfast.

REVEILLE ROLLS

(About 18)

1 package fast granular yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
½ teaspoon sugar
1 cup scalded milk
1½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup sugar
About 4 to 5 cups sifted flour
1 egg, well beaten
⅓ cup melted shortening
1 tablespoon melted butter
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Pour the granular yeast into the ½ cup water, add the ½ teaspoon sugar, stir and let stand to soften. Put the scalded milk, the salt and ⅓ cup sugar into mixing bowl. Let cool. When milk is lukewarm add the softened yeast and 2¼ cups of the flour. Mix and beat until smooth. Stir in the beaten egg, the melted (not hot) shortening and enough more flour to make a medium soft dough. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place dough in covered, greased bowl. Let rise in moderately warm place (82 to 84° F.) until doubled in bulk. Fold the dough down and let rise again 30 minutes. Turn out on floured board. Roll into a sheet ⅛ inch thick and 18 inches wide. Brush dough with the tablespoon melted butter, then sprinkle with the mixture of ¼ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Roll up as for a jelly roll, pressing last edge down firmly. Cut this roll into 1-inch slices and place them, cut side down, in prepared biscuit tin or in medium-size muffin pans. Prepare the pans by buttering bottom and sides generously, then cover with a ¼ inch layer of brown sugar. Add 1 tablespoon water to the mixture in biscuit tin, or 2 to 3 drops water to each muffin pan, before putting in the slices. Cover and let rise until quite light, about doubled. Bake carefully, 20 to 25 minutes, in a moderately hot oven, 350°F. Turn out of the pan, upside down, as soon as removed from the oven.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

There was something so deadly in the advance toward me of the man masquerading as Professor Walter Scott Diswell, that I knew I no longer could delay my defense against him.

His smile, his placating suggestion of my having a cup of tea, were more terrifying than the rage which showed in his face and eyes when he rushed back into the living room.

Cautiously I backed toward the door, and as I did so I brought my hand away from the folds of my skirt and aimed my little silencer pistol at his arm.

Vividly before me was the memory of my humiliating experience when the young gangster on the train took my pistol from me before I had a chance to us it. I did not mean to make that mistake again, and instead of warning the pseudo professor to stop where he was, I fired in the same instant that I took aim.

Effect of Madge's Shot.

The bullet struck his wrist, and the look of utter amazement in his face, as he caught it in his other hand and stopped short in his measured advance upon me, would have been mirth-provoking if I had had time or breath to indulge my risibles.

"That was not a piece of luck," I told him icily. "I really am considered to have accurate aim, and I must warn you that if you come a step nearer, my next shot will do you more harm that this one."

He snapped out of astonishment and into cajolery as the device easiest to use.

"This has been too much for you, my dear," he said. "I am very sorry that dog and the mysterious whistle excited you so. And I forgive you for shooting me, for I know you could not have meant it.

"But, dear child," he went on after a quick pause for breath, "do you not realize that I am your old friend and Jack's, and that not for worlds would I harm you?"

I saw him edging almost perceptibly nearer and thrust the pistol to a position a fraction of an inch higher.

"Don't take a single step forward!" I warned, then knew I could no longer delay telling him of my discovery concerning him. I had listened to his rambling speech only for the purpose of keeping him where he was until Gus and the men outside, waiting for the sound of the whistle, could come to my aid.

Of one thing I was sure, knowing the efficiency and resourcefulness of Gus. Before he did anything else he would make sure that the pretender gardener outside got no chance to enter the house.

However, I had heard no sound of either shot or whistle from outside, and for an instant I speculated frantically upon the possibility that Gus might have been overpowered.

But I smothered my incipient panic and spoke measuredly to the man opposite me, whose ashen color I knew was not due wholly to controlled rage, but partly to the agony which he must be suffering because of his wounded wrist.

"You would be wiser to give up this game without any further pretense," I said. "I am perfectly aware that you are not Professor Diswell, but an impostor, and that the old professor lies gagged in the next room."

Calls Madge Insane.

I was watching his eyes as I spoke, and I knew that I had astounded him again. But in an instant he had replaced his mask.

"I see it all now," he said. "I thought the sounds of the dog and the whistle had turned your brain. Now I see that you were insane, suffering from a delusion, when you came in here."

His voice changed then in tone from soothing monotone to a raucous command.

"Drop that gun, you fool, this instant!" he shouted.

CHINTZ IS NEW

The newest in dancing dresses for the 'teen-age girl are made of chintz, flowery fresh fabric which can be fashioned up into gay, youthful gowns.

There is the suspender-top style which can be worn with, or without, a quaint little guimpe of eyelet embroidered batiste. Another version is an off-the-shoulder gown with its long, fitted torso and lamp-shade skirt. Other feminine chintz dresses feature puff sleeves, round or sweetheart necklines and snugly fitted bodices.

Water spots often can be removed from polished furniture by rubbing lightly with turpentine applied on a soft cloth. Wipe dry and rewax.

To give extra flavor to pot roast, use some potato juice as the liquid and cook a clove garlic with the meat for 10 minutes.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

I am standing around and about the armory the other evening waiting for the fights to begin, and this should surprise no one much for fights come under my general heading of work, and work, believe it or don't, Mr. Ripple, is how I make my living.

So I am standing around the armory chatting of this and that with various characters when who should come along, chuckling somewhat violently to himself, but a person whose birth record says he is none other than Robert Miller.

Now this Robert Miller is sometimes called Bob by persons of little or no imagination, but among the populace at large he is known as Curly because what little hair he has, is.

Now this Miller person is a one-time fighter, and in this instance one-time means once upon a time and this is no fairy story. For it seems that this Bob, who is sometimes called Curly on account of his hair, has fought more than one time in his life, and as a matter of fact he has fought quite a bit more often than sometimes, and this I cannot understand because I have a nose and eyes that do not go for this sort of thing.

But I recognize at once that here is a character who knows his way in and out of a string of hempen strands, as they used to be called when I was very young, even if he has to be carried out. So I realize that this chuckle business is something more than mere digestional exercise.

So I interrogate him in this wise:

"What makes you chuckle so heartily, my friend, when all about us things are going on which seem to be of a more or less serious nature?" And to that he retorts:

"I am boxing around with my kid brother, Chet, the other evening, getting him in shape for these fights, and I am not in such good shape myself so I am panting around for breath and one thing and another, and thinking how happy I am going to be when this is all over.

"And along comes a guy who has a look like he is not even half bright, and he stands and gawks and takes things all in, and when I am all through with my milling around, and ready to hang up the gloves for a day when I will feel much better, he ups and asks what is going on around here.

"Now anyone at all should know what is going on, but when I look at this guy I realize that he shouldn't know because he has a look on his pan like he comes direct from the most secluded portion of the sticks and what puzzles me is how he finds his way out of there.

"So I let him in on the secret and tell him we are boxing, and right away he asks can he do some of that too, and I am a good natured guy so I says sure, come ahead.

"So he puts on the gloves, and I go tearing into him and telling myself I will scare him out of the notion of ever going in for this sort of thing seriously, and what do I run into but a long left hand sticking right in my kisser.

"But I think this is all a mistake, so I tear in again, and boom, there is that left hand again, and in fact this left hand keeps popping away in my mush quite frequent and I begin to get tired of it all and you cannot blame me too much for that.

"So I think I will do something about this, and I quit tearing in, and instead I get cagy and start bobbing around and about, and I feint, and let him have a very dandy of a doozy right in the old basket I think, of course, that he will double up and grunt and moan and yell for some of that stuff called mercy, but he does not even blink an eyelid. That is enough for me.

"And right then I stop, and begin taking off the gloves, because it is apparent to one and all that I have had a long enough workout for one day, and I asks the guy what is his name, and he says his name is Bob Timmons, and I know then that he must be the Timmons kid who plays football for the Mansfield high school Tygers last fall.

"That, I think, accounts for the good shape he is in and why he does not double over when I slug him in the basket, but where does this left hand come from?

"So I ask him does he ever have the gloves on before and where, and he says yes and in Columbus.

"And then I ask him how many fights he has had, and he says 15.

"And that should be enough, but I talked him, right there and then, into entering our JAC tournament at the high school, and somebody else is going to be just as sorry as I was."

Mansfield High Wins Pin Title

Tygers Take Telegraph Meet By Good Margin.

MANSFIELD high school bowling team No. 2 today holds the championship of the American High School Bowling Congress with a 3020 score, including handicap, rolled in a national telegraphic meet Saturday.

Early Sunday morning Mansfield was leading by 60 pins with only four states yet to report. The AHSBC headquarters in Chicago reported this morning that the remaining scores failed to affect the standings in the tournament.

Al Wooley, anchor man of the Mansfield team, also turned in the highest actual score rolled in the tourney with 624 on games of 176, 213, 233, and his final game also probably ranks high in the meet.

Beside Wooley's 624, Ed Woodberry turned in 565, Jack Carr 546, Chuck Frazen 503, and Bill Maxwell 440 for an actual score of 2678.

Alley Stars Fall In ABC

Milwaukee Kegler Hits 727 For Third Place.

COLUMBUS —(NS)— Individual stars, highly touted for their past performances, failed miserably in the ABC tournament here yesterday but one team, the Brunswick Red Crowns of New York City, scrambled the wooden bottles for a 2997 and fourth place early this morning to finish off a busy day which found four changes among the 10 leaders in the various events.

Individual stars who disappointed the biggest matinee crowd of the tournament's first five weeks were Ned Day, who hit 485-594 to finish his all-events with 1664; Frank Benkovic who had 563-570 to finish with 1749; Hand Marino whose 519-573 gave him a low 1679.

But Russ Gersonde, the six-foot five-incher from Milwaukee, tossed in a 727 to tie for third place Gersonde's games were 225-266-236. That middle game found him starting with eight strikes before leaving the five-seven split on a thin hit.

Long before the spectators had reached their seats Joe Zimmerman of Gary, Ind., had gone into fourth with 720 on games of 255-208-257, but ere the day was over he was in fifth spot.

The doubles escaped change, high score being 1254 by Dewey Liegler and Sam Doering of Racine, Wis., but 10th place in the all-events listing went to Charles Stem of Maplewood, Mo., on 1892, with successive counts of 602-622-668.

Then the Red Crowns went to work in the final shift of the day which was one of the highest scoring of the entire tournament. There were 17 teams over 2700 last night, eight of them hitting into the 2800's and three of that number went into 2900.

The Brunswick's were led by the 692 from the good right arm of William Hansly, a veteran kegler, who socked games of 232-225-235. Marty Cassio, the smooth tailor, plunked in 622 while the team counted 911-1029-1057. That was fourth place in the team event.

Schlitz Beer of Grand Rapids had 2933, and Community Clothes of East Rochester poked 2907 to round out the best scoring.

VANDER MEER LOOKS READY FOR STARDOM

BOWLING GREEN, Ky.—(U.P.)—Johnny Vander Meer, the outstanding "comeback" pitcher of last year, papears ready to soar to greater heights this season.

He became the first Cincinnati pitcher to go the full nine innings this sprin gas he limited the Boston Red Sox to four hits yesterday. The Reds won, 2 to 1, in a game played at Birmingham, Ala.

The two clubs resume their annual series here today.

PAUL HAS PLEURISY

BOWLING GREEN, Ky.—(AP)—Big Paul Derringer, Cincinnati's opening day hurler the first two seasons, is recuperating from a heavy cold and a slight touch of pleurisy.

Led In National Tourney

AL WOOLEY

At last reports, Al Wooley, anchor man of the Mansfield high school Tyger keglers, was still leading in the national high school telegraphic bowling tournament rolled Saturday, with a 624 total. And the Tygers were out in front by 60 pins on a 3020 total, including handicap, with four states yet to report.

Masters' Tourney Looms As Biggest Meet Of Golf Year

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(NS)—The Masters golf championship which starts Thursday at the National club on the outskirts of Augusta, Ga., will be the most important tournament of this year due to the cancellation of the U. S. open and because some enduring headlines may be made there.

It wouldn't be surprising if the 72-hole record for the event went by the boards when the elite of our club-swinging stars finish trooping over these rolling fairways.

Some of the boys who have been playing in the West and down through the South are sizzling hot this spring, and conceivably will knock a stroke or two off the 279 standard established by Ralph Guldahl in 1939.

You have to be a little daffy to put your finger on one guy in a select golf field and acclaim him as the standout candidate for the jackpot, for any one of at least a dozen of the entrants might pour on the pressure for four rounds to win it all. But I'll take Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson as the two young men most likely to succeed this time.

They may be over-golfed by now from that arduous winter campaign, and perhaps a gent like Craig Wood who has rested nearly all winter will have the touch to win the masters for the second straight time, or Sam Byrd, who took the Greensboro open, may be able to come right back at Augusta. Some will string along with Sam Snead, too.

But Hogan, who has never won the event, and Nelson, the 1937 champion, have been the big noise this winter in that order and will be close to the front at the finish.

At the moment, Hogan is so far in front of the rest in money-winnings on the current tour that he is virtually certain to finish the year as the leader. Nelson is running second.

They have the shots, the calm deadly concentration, the experience, the will to win and everything else that goes into the make-up of a tournament golfer.

Just to keep the records straight as the boys begin to lineup their sights for Thursday's start, here are the past winners and their scores:

1934, Horton Smith, 284; 1935, Gene Sarazen and Craig Wood tied, 282, and Sarazen won the playoff, 144 to 149; 1936, Smith again, 285, 1937, Nelson, 283; 1938, Henry Picard, 285; 1939, Guldahl, 279; 1940, Jimmy Demaret, 280, 1941, Wood, 280.

Umpire Baiting Ruled Out By National Prexy.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW, YORK—(U.P.)—Fire-eaters Frisch, Durocher and Stengel will have their style cramped drastically this season by a bulletin sent out recently to umpires by President Ford Frick of the National league, it was learned today.

If Leo-the-Lip Durocher, pilot of Brooklyn's beloved bums, comes bellowing from dugout or sideline to bawl out the plate umpire because of a called strike, for example, Lippy Leo will be ejected automatically from the game.

The same penalty will be meted out to Frankie Frisch of the Pirates, Casey Stengel of the Braves or any other manager who attempts man-to-man umpire baiting.

President Frick disclosed today that the first proviso in this bulletin to umpires forbids managers, coaches or anyone else on the bench or sidelines to rush onto the field and protest rulings of the plate official.

This may seem radical in a league made famous by its altercations on the field, but Frick said he and the club owners are striving—in this first season of the war—for less squabbling and faster play.

A second provision, also aimed at speeding up the game, abolishes the "huddle," that ground conclave of players about the pitcher when the manager and his henchmen are trying to decide whether the flinger should go to the showers. Now, only two players and a manager or coach can confer with the pitcher.

The bulletin also insists that sideline coaches keep strictly within the white-lined boundaries of their coaching boxes, unless in conference with the pitcher. They can't sprint onto the field to badger the base umpires.

Opening Day Not Far Away

Junior Circuit Leads National In Victories.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK—(AP)—Teams are going home from spring training, pitchers are going the route in exhibitions and the fans are going in circles—all of which means that major league baseball is about ready to get going in the pennant races of 1942.

* * *

With little more than a week to wait until they start playing for keeps, the teams in the American league are out in front of the National leaguers in exhibition competition today by five games.

Representatives of the junior circuit have triumphed in 55 of the 105 spring training battles involving opponents from the opposite side of the majors.

Equally as unimportant is the fact that five weeks' play in the Grapefruit belt has elevated three clubs in each league as the ones to beat when the chips go down.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers top the senior circuit while the St. Louis Browns, Washington Senators and New York Yankees look like the class of the American league.

The Pirates head the Grapefruit standings, just two percentage points ahead of the Browns, with whom they have been running neck and neck for a couple of weeks.

Pittsburgh has won 17 of its 23 games to date, including 10 out of 13 against American league teams and four out of six in the National league.

The Browns, who own a record of 14 victories and five defeats, have won nine of their 10 inter-league tilts and two out of three against other American leaguers.

More impressive, however, is the record of the Senators, who have played 25 games and won 18 of them.

Third in the Grapefruit standings, the Nats have come up with seven out of 10 against other American league clubs and 10 out of 14 with National entries.

Harder Likes Opener Spot

Will Ask Relief If Weather Turns Bad.

GREENVILLE, Miss. — (U.P.) — Naturally pleased over his selection as Cleveland's opening day pitcher, Mel Harder said today he will ask to be excused if the weather isn't just right for his arm when the first "play ball" sounds April 14 at Detroit.

"I surely am glad to get that job," explained the Indians' veteran hurler, "but I shall ask to be relieved if the weather is bad. I won't be doing either the club or myself any good by taking chances."

* * *

Harder does not want to take any risks this early in the season which will endanger his comeback effort which has been highly successful to date. Except for that starting assignment, he does not figure in any of Manager Lou Boudreau's regular pitching plans at the moment. He will be "spotted" here and there during the first few weeks according to the weather.

Vernon Kennedy, an American league veteran picked up by the Indians from Washington last winter, hurled impressively yesterday, holding Little Rock to one run in six innings. The Tribe lost, however, to the minor leaguers, 4 to 3, on spotty pitching by Al Milnar. The Indians play the New York Giants here today.

Capitals Cop Hockey Title

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—(U.P.)—A devastating three-period offensive carried the Indianapolis Capitals to their first American league hockey championship last night with an 8-3 victory over the Hershey Bears in the fifth game of their play-off series.

* * *

Victory brought Indianapolis $2,500 in prize money as well as the coveted Calder cup trophy. The Bears will share a $2,000 runner-up prize.

Attacking with machine-gun precision, the Capitals sent 8,000 spectators into an uproar midway in the first period by scoring three goals within 51 seconds. They added three more in the second and two in the third. Hershey tallied once in the first period and twice in the third.

Jack Keating and Les Douglas contributed two goals and two assists apiece for Indianapolis to bring their total points to 17, breaking the individual series record set by Pittsburgh's Billy Taylor in 1940.

Feller Helps Navy Win Opener

In the uniform of the Norfolk, Va., Naval Training Station team instead of that of the Cleveland Indians, Bob Feller is pictured above as he helped the Norfolk naval cadets defeat the University of Richmond at Norfolk, 13-1. Though he allowed Richmond its only run, Feller's fast one burned the plate during three innings he pitched.

McKechnie Turns Pale at Thought of Player Injuries

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—You can expect to see Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds turn pale this spring every time a baserunner collides with a Redleg infielder.

The reason is that the Deacon just can't afford to have his infielders get hurt—not in the early stages of the league chase, at any rate, for as the Reds left Florida, they had available no infield replacements with major league seasoning.

* * *

Bobby Mattick, second-string shortstop, left the club last week for his home in St. Louis to try again for correction of eye trouble which has plagued him since an accidental beaning a couple of seasons ago. On March 11 he played in his only exhibition game of the spring.

Chuck Aleno hasn't been able to give Rookie Bert Haas much of a battle for the third base position, for Aleno is nursing a sore arm and has been in only two practice games, both of them more than two weeks ago.

To understudy Lonnie Frey, second baseman, the Reds lately acquired Joe Abreu from Milwaukee on a trade for a couple of farm hands and brought him to Florida from California, but he has seen little action.

Barring serious injuries, the Reds should need few substitutes for First Baseman Frank McCormick, who didn't miss a game last season despite a beaning, and for Second Baseman Lonnie Frey and Shortstop Eddie Joost, who together missed only a total of 10 contests.

First Baseman Eddie Shokes, who had a half-season's experience with Indianapolis in 1941, has five safe hits in 14 trips to the plate this spring and ought to be good enough to watch McCormick push his consecutive-game string toward 700.

McCormick had only a half dozen safeties in the first 10 practice games, but he's showed signs of locating a cure for the slump that carried over from last season and has rapped out nine hits in the last six contests. If Buck's batting average sags, the clean-up position is likely to go to Gerald Walker, new outfielder.

Haas, ticketed to start at third, has been having fielding woes, but McKechnie is counting on the former Columbus Redbird to sock the ball in a way that will make fans forget defensively superior Bill Werber, now with the Giants.

Haas led the American Association in runs batted in last year and has battered the ball at a .357 clip in the grapefruit grind.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Why wouldn't it be logical to stage next summer's heavyweight title between Private Joe Louis and Private Billy Conn at Soldier Field Chicago? . . . But if we know Mike Jacobs and his liking for running things right in his own back yard, there's about as much chance that it will be staged at MacArthur, Ohio . . . Baltimore Boy Scout troops can win free admission to one of the Orioles' ball games by collecting two tons of waste paper during April.

When the Detroit Red Wings crashed into the Stanley Cup hockey finals, Defenseman Jimmy Orlando wrote this inspirational message on the locker room bulletin board:

"Let's go! It takes two years to make $600 in the army. Fight! Think of the mortgage, fellows. On to victory!"

Buckeyes Get Share Of Stars

Ohio High Schools Fill Buck Grid Needs.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Some of the "big ones got away" the last two years, but you'll find plenty of all-Ohio high school talent on Ohio State university's football squad which started its second week of spring training today in preparation for the 1942 Big Ten campaign.

* * *

Time was when many Buckeye scholastic stars steered clear of their State university and headed for other colleges, but the tide seems to have turned.

On the squad of 55 being put through preliminary paces by Coach Paul E. Brown are more than 20 players who won recognition in 1939 and 1940 on the all-Ohio squads selected by the Associated Press from among the state's 500 football-playing schools.

At the end of the first week's workouts, Brown came up with a list of 30 outstanding candidates for jobs on the varsity. Of that group 15 were on the all-Ohio of the last two scholastic campaigns. Heading the list, of course, is Horace Gillom, the great end, kicker and pass receiver from Massillon, named to a first string wing job on both the 1939 and 1940 all-Ohio elevens.

With Gillom, from the 1939 first team, are George Slusser of Massillon, Paul Sarringhaus, bespectacled star from Hamilton, and Bob Shaw, the husky from Fremont Ross, who were in the backfield.

From the 1940 scholastic first team are Eugene Fekete of Findlay, who may be the starting right halfback for the Bucks, and Tom James of Massillon prospective half. Other backfield aces on the squad are Dick Kingham of Massillon and Melvin Kukotich of Salem, from last year's second all-Ohio.

* * *

All-Ohio linemen from 1940, in addition to Gillom, are Bob Jabbusch of Elyria, who was on the third team, and honorable mentions Eli Broglio of Massillon, Bill Hackett of London, Gordon Appleby of Massillon, and Dick Heller of Lakewood.

Pick Committees For Galion Club

BUCYRUS — Anticipating the opening of the golf season, E. Blair Ruhl, newly elected president of Bucyrus Country club, today announced the committees in charge of club activities during the coming season.

Fred Trautman has been named chairman of the grounds and C. E. Gebhardt, the house chairman. Rollen Koons will head the membership committee and Charles R. Spiegel will be in charge of social activity.

E. C. Oppenlander will serve as local tournament chairman and out-of-town tournaments will be arranged by Jay Winters. C. U. Ahl is caddy chairman.

The employment of Robert Hannum as head greenskeeper was recently announced and he will be assisted by a locker room assistant and caddy master. No pro will be employed to replace William Musterd who leaves to accept a similar position with the Western Golf club in Detroit, officers have announced.

Others on the 1942 official staff are C. E. Gebhardt, vice president; James E. Jones, secretary-treasurer; W. G. Carlisle, John C. Carroll, E. S. Foreman, N. E. Jersey, Dr. F. P. Leonard, J. R. Neff and Charles Michael, directors.

CARDS TRIMMED

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(U.P.)—The St. Louis Cardinals had neither good pitching nor tight fielding yesterday at Lakeland as the Detroit Tigers gave them an 8 to 7 trimming. The Cards put over four runs in the ninth inning including a homer by Ervin Dusak, but the rally fell short.

Art Hilborn Hits 702 In Pin Match

Art Rattan bowlers turned in a 191-pin victory over Ohio Bedding Co. of Columbus in a special match Saturday night at Colony alleys, as Art Hilborn rolled a 702 total on games of 221-234-247, and Johnny Leppo chalked up a 617 total.

THEATERS

Vibrant Drama.

The undercurrents of love and hate, happiness and despair, that flow beneath the apparently smooth surface of a small town and its people are revealed in "King's Row," filmization of Henry Bellamann's absorbing novel, showing at the Ohio. Two romances are followed in the picture, one between a bad boy from the right side of the tracks and a girl from the wrong side of the tracks. Ronald Reagan and Ann Sheridan carry the latter roles while Robert Cummings and Betty Field portray the other couple whose love affair came to a tragic end. The cast includes Claude Rains, Charles Coburn and Maria Ouspenskaya.

Cartoon Circus.

"Dumbo," Walt Disney's sail-eared elephant who can fly, is the big attraction in the full-length cartoon by the same name showing at the Madison. The picture has a circus setting and introduces an array of new characters including the Five Black Crows and an alert little engine called Casey Junior. A handful of new songs embellish the show and the speaking voices of Edward Brophy, Herman Bing and Cliff Edwards. A rousing story of two battling marines and their blundering efforts to round up a gang of enemy spies is the basis for "Call Out the Marines," the second picture, co-starring Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe. Binnie Barnes is the girl.

Musical Western.

Gene Autry plays guardian for a group of school girls sent to the dude ranch where he is foreman in "Heart of the Rio Grande," showing at the Ritz. Edith Fellows plays the role of the problem daughter and Fay McKenzie, teamed with Autry in "Down Mexico Way," is in the film. Rosalind Russell and Walter Pidgeon are co-starred in "Design For Scandal," in which a woman judge learns about romance first hand. Edward Arnold and Mary Beth Hughes are other players.

Swashbuckling Thriller.

Douglas Fairbanks' adventure film, "The Corsican Brothers," filled with the kind of swashbuckling and gallantry that endeared his father to the silent picture populace, is the Park theater attraction. Fairbanks appears in a dual role as twin brothers who experience one another's reactions although they are far apart. Ruth Warwick and Akim Tamiroff are in the cast. Hugh Herbert in "Don't Get Personal," a comedy involving the mix-up of four young people, is the second attraction. Jane Frazee and Robert Paige are in the cast.

RETURNS TO JOB

HARRISBURG, Ill.—(U.P.)—National defense made an unexpected change for A. A. Moore, former county school superintendent who has been retired since 1923. Due to the loss of many teachers to defense jobs and the armed services he was called back into active teaching service.

Kuibyshev, formerly Samara, and now temporary capital of the U.S.S.R., was named in honor of the man who had won and defended it for the Soviet government.

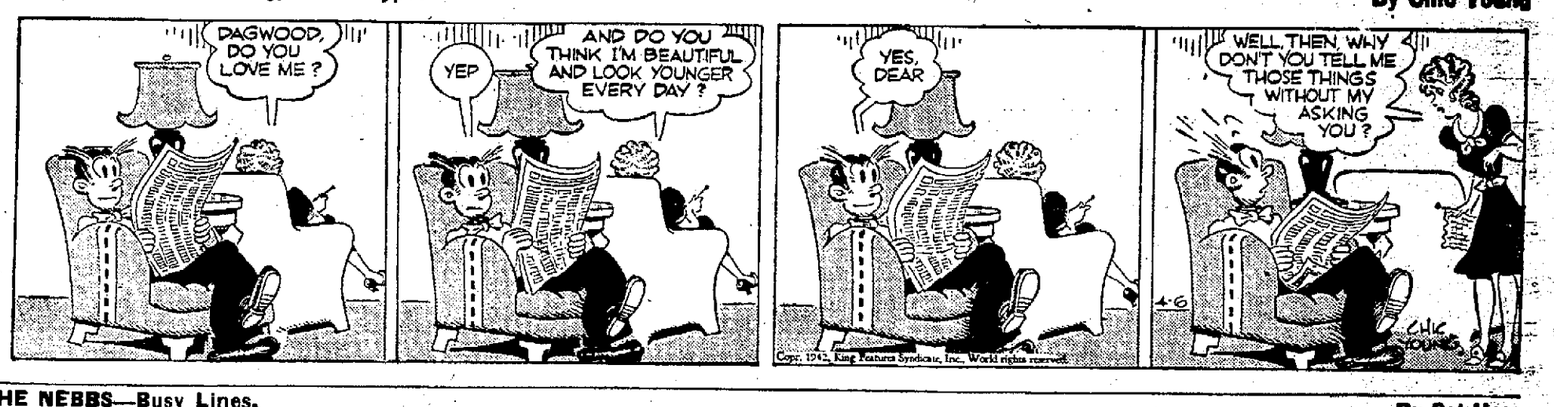
GEE! THIS PERISCOPE IS PERFECT! WHERE'D YOU LEARN HOW TO MAKE A PERISCOPE, CHUCK?
LET'S JUST SAY ANOTHER LITTLE-KNOWN CHAPTER IN MY PAST HAS BEEN PARTIALLY REVEALED, AND LET IT GO AT THAT, EH?
4-6-42
O. K., CHUCK! BUT PUTTIN' IT INSIDE THIS OLD HOLLOW TREE WAS A MIGHTY SLICK IDEA—
HM-M--NOT MUCH CHANCE THAT IT WILL BE NOTICED—AND NOW WE CAN SEE INTO ELDEENS BACK YARD—
YEAH! AN' BY WORKIN' UP FROM THAT SHACK BY TH' CREEK, THROUGH TH' BUSHES, WE CAN WATCH DAYTIMES WITHOUT BEIN' SPOTTED—
SH-H—THERE'S THE OLD FELLOW WITH WHISKERS THAT WE SAW LAST NIGHT—
THE POOR OLD MAN THEY HAD CHAINED TO HIS BED? HE'S TH' ONE I SAW UP TH' TREE THAT DAY—
YEAH—WELL, HE WON'T CLIMB ANY TREES TODAY—WITH THAT BALL AN' CHAIN TO LUG ALONG—

BLONDIE—He's the Strong, Silent Type! By Chic Young



DAGWOOD, DO YOU LOVE ME?
YEP
AND DO YOU THINK I'M BEAUTIFUL AND LOOK YOUNGER EVERY DAY?
YES, DEAR
WELL, THEN, WHY DON'T YOU TELL ME THOSE THINGS WITHOUT MY ASKING YOU?

YES, AMY—YOU HEARD THAT AT THE BEAUTY PARLOR? JUST WAIT 'TIL I TELL ELLA—WON'T SHE BE SURPRISED!!
I'LL BE SURPRISED IF YOUR VOICE DOESN'T GIVE OUT!
4-6
JUST A MINUTE, AMY—THE HOUSE PHONE IS RINGING
SO ARE MY EARS, WITH ALL THIS CHATTER
HELLO, GRACE? THANKS, I'M A LITTLE BETTER—HANG ON A MOMENT, I'M BUSY ON THE OTHER PHONE
YOU'VE GOT TWO PHONES AND TWO EARS—NATURE SHOULD HAVE GIVEN YOU TWO MOUTHS. YOU CERTAINLY COULD USE A SPARE!

SHE WAS CUTE WITH HAIR SO WAVY BUT HE WAS SMART HE JOINED THE NAVY!!
I'LL GO!
WAIT!! I'LL GO WITH YOU—

THE GUMPS—Sounds of An Unsound Hound. By Gus Edson

YOU ARE THE HUSBAND ER—I MEAN, WIFE OF LEFTY WRIGHTE, THE MAN WITH THE TWO LEFT FEET? WHERE IS HE? IS HE REALLY THE MAN WHO STOLE MY TIGER TOOTH RUBY? WHY ARE YOU WILLING TO TURN ON HIM AND HELP ME?
PATIENCE, MR. GUMP! I'LL EXPLAIN ALL—
4-6
WHY DID YOU SEND FOR ME? WHERE'S FERDINAND FERRETT?
YES! LEFTY WRIGHTE DID STEAL YOUR FAMOUS GEM! ONLY RECENTLY I FOUND OUT THAT MY HUSBAND IS AN INTERNATIONAL JEWEL THIEF—
GUS EDSON
WHAT A PERFECT ALIBI HE HAS! HE HAS BEEN FEATURED IN CARNIVAL SHOWS THE WORLD OVER—POLICE WOULD NEVER DREAM OF LOOKING FOR SUCH AN IMPORTANT CROOK IN A FREAK SHOW—BUT MR. GUMP I'M AN HONEST LAW-ABIDING GIRL—
SH! I THOUGHT I HEARD SOMEONE IN THAT ROOM—A GROAN!
GROAN? AH, YES! OF COURSE, THAT'S DEAR LITTLE SARA SUE—MY POOR DOGGIE—SHE HAS SUCH A DREADFUL COLD—

DICK TRACY—The Head Man. By Chester Gould

THE FIRST ONE OF THE TIRE GANGSTERS TO USE THE LOOSENED STAIRWAY IS B-B EYES. AND WHAT A RECEPTION HE GETS!
WHAT'S THE USE OF SHOOTING AT 'EM THROUGH THAT DOOR? WE'D BETTER GET OUT OF HERE!
BUT THEY'VE GOT B-B EYES DOWN THERE!
THAT FIRST STEP WAS QUITE A SURPRISE, EH, B-B EYES?
WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO NOW, TRACY?
WE'RE GOING UP AFTER THE REST OF 'EM, PAT!

LEADERS LACK ANY DEFINITE MARKET TREND

Westinghouse Included Among Issues Drawing Support of Mild Variety.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — While minor gains were numerous in today's stock market many of the leaders lacked a definite trend.

Improvement was the rule for a number of rails, oils and industrial specialties at the opening. Some of the steels made slight headway near the second hour but motors were inclined to lag.

Supported at times were N. Y. Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Johns-Manville and Westinghouse.

Prospects that the steel industry would better its already impressive production record were discerned in reports from leading producing centers.

In its weekly review the magazine Steel said:

"New production records in pig iron and steel and opening of the iron ore season at the earliest date ever known forecast probably the greatest activity ever attained by the steel industry.

"Numerous steelmakers established new high marks in March."

RETIRED MAIL CARRIER DIES

David Ambrose Spangler, 73, Had Been Ill Five Years, Funeral Tuesday.

SHELBY — David Ambrose Spangler, 73, retired rural mail carrier, died Saturday at his home here after an illness of five years.

A resident of Shelby for 30 years, Spangler had retired as a rural mail carrier eight years ago after serving 15 years with the postoffice here. Previous to this he had taught school and also served two terms as state representative from Henry county.

Surviving are his wife, Mary Frances; three sons, Bernard, Ambrose and Frederick, all of Shelby; six daughters, Mrs. William Broderick, jr., and Mrs. Clara Heckman of Shelby; Mrs. Mae Kelley of Leipsic, O.; Mrs. C. J. Kalbfleisch of Mansfield; and Mrs. Al Fitz and Mrs. Carol Nagel, both of Sandusky; one brother, August Spangler of Pittsburg, Kan.; two sisters, Mrs. Mike Hayes of Hamler, O., and Mrs. Clemens Kalter of Toledo; forty grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held from the Most Pure Heart of Mary Catholic church at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday with Rev. Michael A. McFadden officiating. Burial will be made in the parish cemetery.

DEFENSE WORKER HELD AS SLAYER

Accused of Strangling Mother of Two Children to Death.

QUINCY, Mass. —(INS)— A 25-year-old married defense worker today was held on a charge of suspicion of murder in connection with the strangle-slaying of Mrs. Helen D. Cullen, 45, Boston mother of two children, whose unclad and bruised body was found Saturday in an abandoned quarry.

Whether the man was one of two men police earlier announced were being sought, officials would not disclose.

Mrs. Cullen, who was wanted by police for parole violation, was seen in Boston's west end Friday night with a tall man. Mrs. Cullen and her husband separated six years ago.

FOUR SOLDIERS HURT IN CRASH NEAR ASHLAND

tured shoulder, a broken nose and multiple cuts and bruises.

Sheriff Hammond said he was unable to learn where the soldiers were headed for but said that they had been visiting in Cleveland on furlough and were headed south on the highway when the accident occurred.

Except for the collision on U. S. Route 42, only a few minor accidents were reported in the Mansfield area.

Dr. W. E. Young, 27 East Second street, received abrasions on the knees yesterday when struck by an automobile as he was walking across the intersection at Main and Fourth street. Spencer B. Draffan of Ballylin Farm, driver of the car, told police he was making a left turn and failed to see Dr. Young.

At Willard, Dr. Homer H. Ewing was sent to the municipal hospital with chest injuries following a collision between his automobile and another driven by Maribel Heck, 21, of Willard.

Jud Traxler, Galion R. D. 3, received fractures of both legs and cuts about the head Saturday night when struck by an automobile in Galion. Clinton McFarland, also of Galion R. D. 3, driver of the car, told police that he saw Traxler walking along the street and that Traxler seemed to stumble in front of his car.

Donald Yoder, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yoder of near Millersburg, received fatal injuries yesterday when his scooter was struck by an automobile driven by Paul Lingler of Sugar Creek, on a Holmes county highway, nine miles east of Millersburg. The boy died en route to the hospital.

According to Holmes county Sheriff H. R. Weiss, the child rode his scooter down a bank onto the highway in front of Lingler's car. Lingler was questioned by Weiss and released.

Survivors are his parents, a twin sister, Faun, and one brother, Gene.

The body was taken to the Elliott funeral home. Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Berlin Mennonite church. Rev. K. R. Roberts, pastor of the Millersburg Lutheran church, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Krieger, a former pastor of the church. Burial will be in Berlin cemetery.

Ashland county authorities reported that Theodore Dill, 34, of Wellington, received fractures of both legs and a fractured right hand late Saturday when his automobile which had stalled was struck by another driven by Charles Grift of Loudonville on U. S. Route 224, one mile west of Nova. Dill was admitted to the New London hospital.

RITES SET FOR MRS. HAMMETT

Funeral services for Mrs. Harold J. Hammett, 35, who died Saturday at her home on the Woodville road, will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Caeserea church with Rev. Jack Mellick officiating. She was the former Leona Gaul.

She was born Feb. 23, 1907, in Mansfield and spent her entire life here. She was a member of the Caeserea church in Washington township.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, Gerald and Wilbur; one daughter, Frances; her father, Louis D. Gaul; two brothers, Charles and Harold Gaul of Mansfield; and four sisters, Mrs. Fred Reamsnider of Butler, Mrs. Herbert Dickerson of Bellville, Mrs. Sterling Horn of Mansfield, and Mrs. Leon Danals of Ontario.

The body will be at the residence until time of services. Burial will be in the Caeserea church cemetery.

RECOVER BODY OF 8TH FLIER

Rescuers Find Body Of Private In Debris Of Ill-Fated Plane.

BOISE, Idaho—(INS)—Death toll in the crash of a huge four-motored army bomber reached eight today when rescuers recovered the body of Private Kenneth Biddinger, Indianapolis.

Bodies of seven other victims were discovered in the wreckage Saturday, but Biddinger's body was not found at the time although it was pinned in the debris.

The plane, a B-17 "fortress," crashed 10 miles from the Idaho-Utah border during a routine flight from Ogden, Utah, to Boise Friday night.

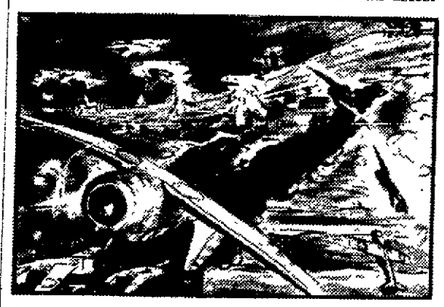
Unknown Admiral

HALSEY, THE HAMMER

EXPERIENCED in the use of destroyers, his specialty in World War 1 was protecting convoys. He served as naval attache in Berlin, Stockholm.

TRAINED as a pilot and past commander of aircraft carriers, he used air power in smashing Jap ships, installations at Gilbert and Marshall Isles.



HARD HITTER, he followed three weeks later with a raid Feb. 24 on Wake, March 4 on Marcus, scared Tokyo into a blackout. He caused extensive damage, lost 2 planes. Holds Navy Cross, Distinguished Service medal, foreign honors.

(By Wide World)

"THE OLD SALT" to classmates at Annapolis 40 years ago, Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, jr., is living up to his reputation as a tenacious fighter with hammer-like demolition thrusts at Japanese island bases across the whole Pacific area. Here are highlights in the life of the man friends call "the MacArthur of sea warfare."

SEA IN BLOOD, Halsey is descendant of two colonial families. His father was a naval captain. "The Old Salt" was born at Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 30, 1882, entered Annapolis at 18, believes in relentless war. MacArthur is personal friend.
